Woman bilked of $2,000

Warn con artists in city

The Wayne County Sheriff's Department has issued a warning to Romulus residents to be on their guard against a con scheme that recently resulted in the robbery of $2,000 from one elderly local resident and a potential larceny against another.

In a strongly-worded statement, issued by the community affairs office, the sheriff's department warned that, "Under no circumstances admit anyone to your home unless properly identified, sign any agreement or make cash payments for promised services."

According to sheriff's deputies, the scheme pulled on one unsuspecting 85-year-old woman involved two "dark-complexioned male Caucasians, approximately 40 years of age, cleanly-dressed," who appeared in a truck and claimed to be city water inspectors.

After some conversation, one man asked the woman for change, which revealed the location of a cigar box containing approximately $2,000.

After change was given, the second man distracted the woman while his partner took the box and left by another entrance, police said.

When the woman returned to her bedroom, the box containing her savings was gone and so were the two men.

Police cautioned that there are many variations to this ripoff. The conartist, male or female, may feign sickness, ask for water, seek directions or ask to do odd jobs, such as repairing driveways, etc. However, the basic con remains the same: they gain entrance, locate money or valuables, distract the victim and then disappear, police explained.

According to Jay Young, public information officer for the city, all city inspectors carry identification badges, usually displayed on the outside of clothing for easy identification, and drive city vehicles clearly marked with the city name or emblem.

However, if doubts still remain, Young said residents may call 941-0666, extension 65, and ask the personnel office to verify the employee's I.D. number.

A sheriff's department spokesman said many of the victims are afraid to report incidents for fear of reprisals, but assured them their names will remain strictly confidential. He also cautioned that the elderly or those living alone are prime candidates for the ripoff.

Anyone observing suspicious behavior or strange vehicles lingering in a neighborhood are urged to call the sheriff's department at 721-2222.

VB five are freed; to appeal

Eight days after being lodged in the Wayne County Jail, four members of the Van Buren Township Board were freed by the same judge who incarcerated them. A fifth trustee, who remains in the Wayne County General Hospital under observation for a heart condition, also was released.

In Lansing at the state Capitol, new legislation is expected to be introduced soon that would grant immunity from jailing to elected public officials in cases where the courts order them to approve specific action.

Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) Monday told the Enterprise that he has requested the Legislative Services Bureau to draft such a bill. He said he expects to introduce the bill on the Senate floor in two to three weeks.

Those close to the case believe that Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman was beginning to feel the pressure of newspaper editorials and numerous telephone calls to his office since he ordered the seven-member board jailed March 2.

In any event, a week to the day after their incarceration, Judge Kaufman, following several telephone calls and a court session with attorneys for the township and plaintiffs, ordered the four remaining trustees released from jail Friday.

According to Sup. Pat Cullin, who along with her four colleagues remained steadfast in her refusal to sign an agreement for a sewer hookup for a proposed mobile home park, their release came about after a clarification in communication between the board and the judge.

When the board's attorneys made it clear to Judge Kaufman that they would abide by the decision of the higher courts, after exhausting all legal means at its disposal, he had them freed.

Judge Kaufman had jailed the board on two occasions — March 2 and last Dec. 28 — on a contempt of court charge for refusing to obey his order to allow the sewer hookup.

Another condition that the township board will fulfill is to offer a resolution at a future regular meeting stating it will continue to be law-abiding and follow the final decision of the highest appellate court, including the state Supreme Court.

The resolution, Cullin explained, would make the board's agreement with Judge Kaufman a matter of official record.

On Friday, township attorneys will file for a leave to appeal before the Michigan Court of Appeals asking whether or not Judge Kaufman was correct in ordering the township board to vote for a letter of consent from the mobile home park developers for the sewer connection to the neighboring Ypsilanti sewage system.

Prior to and following the release of the five board trustees, stories in the major metropolitan daily newspapers and those carried by Detroit television stations were incorrect in stating the reason for release of the five trustees.

Many stories reported the release came about after the five trustees agreed to sign a "permit" for the sewer connection. But, as Cullin pointed out, that is an erroneous statement.

"A permit is different than an agreement. If the judge had ordered

Dial-a-ride buses will begin April 6

Mayor William M. Oakley, SEMTA representative and other elected officials will formally initiate Romulus' first SEMTA (Southeast Michigan Transit Authority) dial-a-ride bus service on Friday, April 6, 1979 at 10 a.m. at the Romulus City Hall, by driving a new mini-bus through a banner proclaiming the occasion.

The dial-a-ride service, called ETS or Essential Transportation Service by SEMTA officials, is scheduled to begin county-wide on April 1, 1979. ETS is a small bus service designed to primarily serve elderly and handicapped residents.

It will be the fifth such program initiated by SEMTA, with similar ones already in operation in Livingston, Macomb, Oakland and Monroe counties.

Ten new buses, together with 11 buses currently in use in Wayne County, will be used to develop the first phase of Wayne County's ETS.

When fully implemented, the system will have 74 vehicles.

Fares will start at 50 cents for elderly persons, age 65 and over, and handicapped passengers. However, qualified residents can receive a 50 percent reduction in the base fare by obtaining a SEMTA identification card for $1. Applications are available at the Romulus Public Information Office or by calling 962-9800, extension 239.

The base fare will allow a person to travel anywhere within Romulus, as well as up to 12 miles outside the city, in some instances. Each additional zone travelled thereafter will cost an additional 15 cents per zone.

The base fare also includes free transfers to all regular SEMTA bus routes throughout the metropolitan area.

For further details, residents should call the SEMTA office in Detroit at 962-9800.

Matching grants help

Approve park improvements

Action taken last week by the Romulus City Council paves the way for recreational improvements at two city parks.

Council unanimously approved a request from Pat Hogan, community development director, to go ahead with plans to install four handball courts at Elmer Johnson Park with a grant from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Hogan said half of the $29,000 total cost of the handball court construction program will be borne by the DNR and half by the city of Romulus.

He said the application for the matching 50-50 grant was made last fall and recently approved. The city will now prepare specifications and let bids for the project, he said.

"Hopefully, construction on the handball courts will start in early summer, with completion expected by middle to late summer," Hogan explained.

In other action, council unanimously okayed a request from Hogan to apply to the DNR for a matching 50-50 grant to build two lighted tennis courts, a basketball court and a fence at Park No. 1, Henry Ruff and Beverly roads.

Hogan said the total cost of the program would be $70,000, with the city again paying half and the other half being paid by the federal grant obtained through the DNR.

"The fencing would be put up on the northern boundary of Park No. 1 in an effort to curb vandalism in the park," Hogan said.

Both projects are steps in a continuing program by the city of Romulus to update and improve recreational facilities at public parks. Last year, baseball diamonds and an archery range were added to recreational activities available at Elmer Johnson Park.

Sup. Cullin released from jail

Van Buren Township Sup. Pat Cullin is welcomed home Friday at Van Buren Township Hall by Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley after her release from the Wayne County Jail. Looking on is Mrs. Cullin's daughter, Marri. Cullin and three other board trustees were greeted at the township hall by about 100 well-wishers who turned out to welcome them after a week in jail for defying a judge's order to allow a sewer hookup for a proposed mobile home park. (Photo by Jay Young.)

Sewer bills to rise for few

Sewage disposal rates for a few residents in the north end of Romulus may be increased by June 1, 1979, according to City Clerk Leonard J. Folmar.

He said the city of Romulus recently received word from the Rouge Valley Disposal System that it was boosting its charges for sewage disposal.

Currently, he explained, the city's finance department is studying the increase to determine what impact it will have on residents living in the affected area.

At last week's city council session, Folmar forwarded the information on the sewage disposal rate hike to council members. He added that the move was strictly routine and was made for the convenience of council members as city council plays no part in whether the sewage disposal rate goes up or not.

Folmar said that, by city ordinance, such rate boosts are automatically passed on to customers.

After the finance commission makes its determination, a legal notice will be published in the local newspaper as required by law and the new rate, whatever it is, will go into effect June 1, 1979, the clerk said.

Presently, residents in the north end of the city being served by the Rouge Valley Disposal System pay $5.15 per 1,000 cubic feet of water for sewage disposal, Folmar said.

Punched card voting soon

Romulus City Clerk Leonard J. Folmar shows what local residents may soon be using to vote at city elections. Clerk predicts new legislation will make punched card voting system universal throughout state of Michigan in the near future and hopes for them to be used in coming fall elections this year. Punched card machine is on display outside clerk's office in City Hall. (Photo by Tom Greenwood, ANP staff photographer.)

For 14th consecutive term

Pizzimenti re-elected PCHA board chairman

Donald J. Pizzimenti by acclamation has been elected to a 14th consecutive term as chairman of the Board of Directors of the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA).

Pizzimenti, a member at-large of the board, is a resident of Allen Park. He is employed by the Detroit Edison Co. as manager of community and governmental affairs.

Re-elected to serve with Pizzimenti were Patrick J. Norton, member at-large from Wayne, as vice-chairman, Roger J. Remer, delegate from Flat Rock, as treasurer, and Hiram McNeely, delegate from Inkster, as secretary.

Re-elected members of the Executive Committee also include Dale D. Hoover of Westland and Harold F. LaVassauer of Trenton, with Edward R. Dudek re-elected to a 4-year term as member at-large.

Elected by the board to the authority's Medical Advisory Committee were Dr. R.V. Jaynes MD, and Dr. D.J. Largo, MD, of Annapolis Hospital; Dr. F.B. Taylor, MD, and Dr. P.J. Wicht, MD, of Beyer Memorial Hospital; Dr. Donald Baltz, MD, and Dr. K. Radsan of Heritage Hospital in Taylor; Dr. E. Mehrabian, MD, and Dr. H. Schunk, MD, of Outer Drive Hospital in Lincoln Park; and Dr. J.W. Hillyer, MD, and Dr. M.S. Sandhu, MD, of Seaway Hospital in Trenton.

The Medical Advisory Committee is responsible for advising the board in regard to professional problems of hospital operation and surgical and medical policies, including matters pertaining to the development of the Medical Staff Bylaws and Rules.

The Board of Directors also unanimously accepted the mission and role statement, prepared by the Long-Range Planning committee.

The statement in part says: "... (the) mission of the PCHA (is) to improve and maintain the health of the population in the service area by providing independently and in cooperation with others, high quality personal health care services... accessible under arrangements socially and psychologically acceptable to the patients and the provider."

The state went on to say: "... PCHA has a principal responsibility for developing, promoting, supporting and strengthening systems and arrangements that provide available and accessible... health care services... to the population of the service area of the authority."

According to Pizzimenti, creation of the Long-Range Planning committee would help to answer some basic philosophical questions, such as "who we are, where we are going, where should we be going and how we are going to get there."

Frederick J. Barten, director of planning services-programs for the PCHA, said that the objectives of the committee would be identified by June and that estimated time frames for program implementation would be completed in an additional month's time.

There currently are 18 sub-committees and task forces associated with the planning committee. The sub-groups are staffed by board members, members of the PCHA administration and by individuals who are asked to serve in the long-range planning activity.

In other action, the board voted to continue an agreement with Schoolcraft Community College and Annapolis Hospital for nurse training.

"This arrangement is a no-cost program in which the nursing students at Schoolcraft receive their clinical training required for graduation," said Lawrence T. Riesser, Annapolis Hospital administrator.

PCHA is the largest hospital authority in Michigan, supporting 1,240 beds in five hospitals — Annapolis in Wayne, Seaway in Trenton, Beyer Memorial in Ypsilanti, Heritage in Taylor and Outer Drive in Lincoln Park.

Reye's Syndrome claims youth, 12

Two weeks ago, 12-year-old Westlander Paul Delaney was home from school, recovering from the last touches of the flu. He was eating good, had stopped vomiting, didn't seem to have a temperature.

His dad, Russ Delaney, had his hands full. His father had become seriously ill and had to be hospitalized, and his wife also was in the hospital, being treated for a collapsed lung.

Luckily, though, Paul's bout with the flu seemed about over.

That was many long and agonizing days ago.

That was when Paul fell victim to the mysterious Reye's Syndrome. By March 6, the electroencephalogram (EEG) that recorded the youngster's brain waves was flat; the child was clinically dead, according to his father and the hospital. March 7, the kidneys and eyes of the youngster were to be taken from his body, which was kept functioning by a respirator to keep the organs viable.

And Russ Delaney and his wife and three other children are left wondering what happened, and why.

They don't know, and the doctors don't know any specific cause or cure for Reye's Syndrome, the lethal children's disease that results in death in 30 percent of the cases. The disease usually strikes after a viral illness, such as the flu or chicken pox.

It strikes suddenly, advancing through the five stages to death unless it can be arrested by hospital treatment.

Paul had been treated at Children's Hospital in Detroit, the Reye's Syndrome Study Center in the area, headed by the chief of the Intensive Care Unit, Dr. Edgardo Arcinue. Delaney said the doctor had been working round the clock to save his son and other children stricken with the disease. Arcinue has done extensive work trying to educate the public about the lethal disease.

Delaney described the events of the last 10 days of his son's life. He wants the public to know about the disease. He wants the cure found, because he doesn't want to see other children suffer, too.

The Westland man was at work Feb. 26, when he got a call that his father was sick. He headed home and took his dad to the hospital, where he still is seriously ill.

Paul had been home from Hamilton Elementary School, in Westland, recovering from the flu, and when Delaney got home, he checked on his son, then went into another room to call his wife, who was in a different hospital.

Paul had said he felt fine, Delaney recalled.

But Delaney began to hear his son

"raising a fuss" from the back bedroom. He went back, and said his son "looked mad at me," but wouldn't talk. The man left the room to finish talking to his wife on the phone.

Suddenly, the boy came running into the room. Unknown to Delaney, his son was rapidly deteriorating into serious stages of Reye's Syndrome. The boy became violent, and off they went to the hospital.

A day later, after the possibility of Reye's Syndrome had been diagnosed, Paul was at Children's Hospital, where most of the cases end up. Delaney recalled the agony of sitting in the waiting room with other parents of children stricken with the disease. He spoke of the "damned frustration you feel watching those little guys go through it."

According to Delaney, his son apparently was at the worse stage of the disease, Stage 5, the next day, then suddenly seemed to be recovering.

But then Paul's condition deteriorated again, and he never recovered.

Delaney wants people to know about the disease, to demand government funds for finding a cure, to support the research.

"We've got to get the word out to people about what is going on," he said yesterday as he prepared to make his last trip to the hospital.

Unfortunately, often it doesn't do any good to know the symptoms, the disease strikes to fast and so arbitrarily. But parents are urged to closely watch children recovering from the flu.

Symptoms listed by the hospital include extreme tiredness, persistent vomiting, dilated pupils, listlessness, and finally personality change and aggressive behavior, disorientation and convulsions. The symptoms will appear suddenly as the child is recovering from flu and seems to be better.

The child's condition can worsen quickly, ending in death with three or four days.

Cases occur most often during the winter months, and while cases are rare, their appearance this winter in Michigan has caused some alarm among parents and doctors. The cause of the disease is unknown. It affects the liver and brain and does not appear to be contagious. Paul's liver will be removed and studied as part of the research into the disease.

A fund also has been initiated by parents of stricken children to support the research program at Children's Hospital to find the cause, cure, treatment and prevention of Reye's Syndrome.

Poison Week observed

Sunday marks the beginning of Poison Prevention Week for 1979.

An annual participant, the Southeastern Michigan chapter of the American Red Cross is offering these suggestions to residents to help prevent needless deaths and injuries to people of all ages.

(1) Keep medications and household products locked up and out of the reach of children.

(2) Ask for and use safety lids or closures on containers of medications and other potentially dangerous products.

(3) Keep products in their original containers, well labeled.

(4) Since children tend to imitate adults, avoid taking medication in their presence. Always refer to medicines by their proper names. Do not refer to them as candy. Exercise particular caution when storing pills which resemble candy in shape, color or taste.

(5) When taking medications at night, always turn on a light and read the label.

(6) Weed out old or unused medications from your medicine cabinet regularly.

(7) Protect your eyes and skin when using insecticides, weed killers, solvents and cleaning agents. Read and follow directions carefully. Be sure to wash thoroughly after each use of these products and promptly remove contaminated clothing.

If someone has swallowed a poisonous substance, stay calm. Seek immediate medical assistance by calling a physician or your local control center at St. Mary's Hospital in Livonia, 464-4444. (You should post the poison control center number on your telephone.)

Be prepared to answer the following questions — if possible: Age and approximate weight of the victim, name of poison and amount swallowed, whether the victim has vomited, your location and the time required to reach the physician or hospital.

Parents, particularly those of small children, are urged by the Red Cross to enroll in a first aid course in which poison prevention and emergency care are covered in more detail. For further information call the Red Cross Safety Services at 833-4440.

1,065 RHS students prepare for Career Day activities

Scheduling 1,065 students for Career Day at Romulus High School March 21 is a challenging task.

Students are being asked to select four choices from a final list of 57 occupations ranging from airline operations to X-ray technician. On Career Day, they will discuss details of their occupations with employers who will visit the school.

Window displays are being readied by teachers and students for Career Day and students are visiting the school's Career Opportunities Resource Center to research possible careers and other related fields.

"I didn't realize there were so many careers that branch out from floristry and gardening," exclaimed Anita Cobb, sixth hour assistant for the science class.

Virginia Tyree researched photography for her class' window display and discovered 16 possible photography careers. Students are becoming more aware of their career interests and are readying themselves with information and questions for the speakers.

Members of the Student Council are preparing posters and a display on "How To Dress For An Interview". They are reviewing do's and don'ts of proper interviewing and will be featuring two manikins as examples along with interviewing tips.

Hospitality is being arranged with welcome and orientation in the Career Opportunities Resource Center and a luncheon is being provided in the Romulette Room of the commercial foods program.

The content and design for the Career Day programs are being readied as follows: In the senior showcase, located in the main lobby will be names of seniors who have decided what they're going to do after graduation, such as attending college and training institutes, or being employed in jobs.

Those undecided students are encouraged to visit the Career Opportunities Resource Center where they will receive assistance in zeroing in on their interests and aptitudes and find out areas of occupations for which they are best suited.

Information will be given on whether more training may be needed and also which related fields should be considered. Students knowing their area of study, will see the senior counselor for further assistance.

Students wanting immediate employment upon graduation will be asked to visit the school's job placement office where employability skills will be introduced and other opportunities made known.

Contacts employers

Alice Fugedi, job placement coordinator at Romulus High School's Career Opportunities Resources Center, telephones employers she would like to visit the school March 21 on Career Day. Students on that day will sit down face to face with employers to discuss details in various occupational fields of their liking.

New law would stop elected official's jailing

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners plans to ask the Michigan State Legislature to pass a law prohibiting courts from using the threat of jail to compel members of legislative bodies to vote in line with court orders.

The plea is contained in a resolution adopted by the county legislators in support of the Van Buren Township trustees who were jailed twice by Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles Kaufman for refusing to sign an agreement for a sewer hookup to a proposed mobile home development.

Four of the township trustees were released Friday, March 9 pending an appeal of the judge's order after spending a week in jail. A fifth trustee, who has a history of heart trouble, was a sheriff's prisoner at Wayne County General Hospital after complaining of chest pains shortly after being jailed. He also will be released from jail.

County Board Chairman Richard E. Manning said the Board of Commissioners would go ahead with its resolution of support for the "Van Buren Five" at a March 15 board meeting because the resolution calls for state action to prevent such incidents in the future.

The resolution was given tentative approval by a 15-2 vote of the commissioners who were meeting as the Ways and Means Committee the day before the trustees were released from jail.

Written by Manning, the resolution charges there is a growing trend toward judges ordering members of legislative bodies jailed for "violating their consciences" and describes the trend as "a new form of tyranny."

The resolution urges the State Legislature to pass a law to provide that "no court shall issue its order nor shall any sheriff or peace officer enforce any order of any court that seeks to compel any person acting in a legislative capacity to cast his vote either positively or negatively under threat of jail."

The resolution also asked the state lawmakers to pass a special bill to reimburse the Van Buren trustees for their economic losses "as well as for the indignities suffered" in being jailed.

The resolution asked Gov. William G. Milliken to issue an executive order freeing the five township officials and nullifying the "unlawful" order from Judge Kaufman. It also asked the Circuit Court bench to "inquire into the propriety" of Kaufman's actions.

The Board of Commissioners, prior to their release, also had given tentative approval to a resolution calling for transfer of the Van Buren trustees from the downtown jail to the township hall to enable them to conduct township business and be closer to families and friends.

This resolution was sponsored by Commissioner R. William Joyner (D-Plymouth) whose 27th District includes Van Buren Township. Joyner also co-sponsored the resolution calling for state action.

Joyner's resolution proposed that the county sheriff deputize the township police chief and transfer the trustees to his custody at the township hall. It pointed out that with the trustees in jail, the 20,000 township residents were "without governmental leadership."

Kaufman originally jailed all seven township elected officials last December. They were released within 36 hours after the Court of Appeals ruled Kaufman had not followed proper procedure. The Court of Appeals upheld the second jailing. Two trustees were released within hours after agreeing to sign the sewer agreement under protest.

In refusing to sign the agreement, the township board charged that the hookup to the Ypsilanti Township sewage treatment plant would aggravate pollution of Belleville Lake, while hookup to a more distant township sewer line, while more expensive, would avoid the pollution problem.

Faust, Owen concerned

Seek Judge Kaufman probe

State Rep. Gary M. Owen (D-Ypsilanti) and State Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) have asked the Michigan Judicial Tenure Commission to review the conduct of a judge who jailed five members of the Van Buren Township Board. The review would determine the advisability of censure, suspension or removal of office of the sitting judge.

Their announcement came last Wednesday, two days before the same judge released the five remaining trustees pending an appeal of his order, March 2.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman jailed the township officials after they refused to implement a court-ordered approval of a sewer connection for a proposed mobile home park, calling the township officials "worse than criminals."

Earlier, in December, Kaufman jailed all seven of the township board members for 31 hours on the same contempt citation. He did this after ordering the township to zone the land.

"Judge Kaufman's actions and statements, which at times sound almost irrational, raise serious questions about his propriety as a member of the judiciary," Owen said. "There could have been a better approach to his differences with the township board, such as a writ of mandamus. His drastic action, controversial statements and excessive use of contempt power would seem to me to warrant a review of his conduct by the Tenure Commission."

Faust noted that the Michigan Supreme Court has ruled, in other cases involving judges, that failure to exercise restraint in the use of contempt power may reflect conduct unbecoming a judicial officer. He added that the Code of Judicial Conduct states that a judge should perform the duties of his office impartially and fairly, and that "the judge should be studious to avoid controversies which are apt to obscure the merits of the dispute. The questions as to whether Judge Kaufman has been fair and impartial and whether he has used reasonable restraint in his contempt power in turn raise questions as to his capabilities to hold judicial office," Faust said.

Owen added, "What Judge Kaufman has said and done have inflamed, rather than attempted to settle, a sensitive and complex issue. I am convinced that the township board members were simply attempting to represent the interests of township residents. Whether right or wrong, they did not deserve to be jailed as criminals. A judge's personal feelings should not enter into his judicial decisions. Senator Faust and I are asking for an immediate investigation by the Tenure Commission to determine whether Judge Kaufman acted rationally and responsibly and if official action should be taken against him."

VB five freed; will appeal case

us to sign a permit, we would have done so because that would not have required a vote of the township board.

"However, in the case of an agreement, our interpretation is it required a vote by the board. This, in effect, meant that the judge was telling us how to vote and we do not believe he has the power or authority to do that," she explained.

Released along with Cullin were trustees Fred Domen, Tom Welty and Donna Hall. Jerry Maton is still a patient in the hospital where he was taken three days after being lodged in jail where he had complained of chest pains. Clerk Doreen Craven and Treasurer Dorothy York signed the agreement March 2 and were released.

The township board's good fortune in being released from jail came shortly after Dawn Phillips, a former Van Buren Township attorney, was hired to assist Richard G. James, present township attorney.

Cullin said she was hired by the five jailed members to help represent them in light of her background in working on the mobile home park case several years back.

According to a source at township hall, it was Mrs. Phillips who engineered the telephone and official meetings with Judge Kaufman that resulted in the board's release.

The case got off to a roaring start back in 1970 when the developers of the proposed mobile home park went to court and bypassed the township's normal channels and succeeded later in having Judge Kaufman rezone the 101.87 acres of agriculturally zoned land to 91 acres of R-T (mobile home) and 10.87 acres as (C-1) commercial.

The many court hearings since then, with Judge Kaufman presiding at all sessions, culminated in his ordering the board to allow the sewer hookup. After the township board refused his order, he had them jailed Dec. 28, but all seven members were released by the Court of Appeals who granted them a stay after 31 hours behind bars.

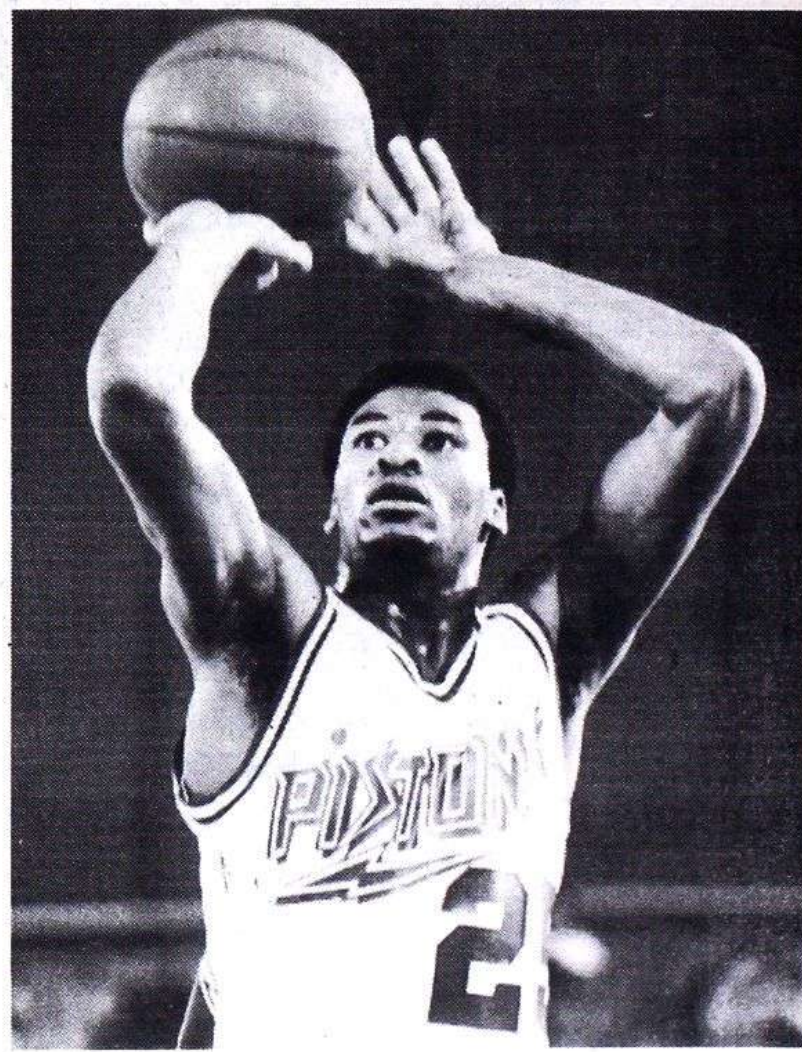

When the township board a second time voted not to allow the sewer connection, Judge Kaufman again had them jailed, not releasing them until they had tasted jail confinement for a week.

Although the board, through its attorney, tried to interject the dangers of further polluting Belleville Lake by the addition of some 450 mobile home park residents, the judge refused to allow what he called new evidence into the case at later hearings.

The jailing of the township board caught the attention not only of newspapers and television and radio stations but was on the lips of the general public for days. The board's first jailing was carried across the nation, making headlines in large cities and small communities alike. Their second jailing made them even more famous across the breadth of the land.

A rally last week (Wednesday) in Belleville was attended by an estimated 1,100 persons who raised $400 on the spot for a legal defense fund and who symbolically "buried" the rights of the township with an effigy of Judge Kaufman looking on.

Not disregarding Judge Kaufman's comments in a newspaper story shortly after the five trustees were released from jail that his action was not prompted by any pressure he felt from almost every quarter, the fact remains that it was he who ordered them freed.

Center of attention

Piston guard John Long, pictured here in the middle of his trademark, the outside jump shot, will be the center of attention for some 400 Romulus residents who are purchasing tickets to the special "Romulus Night at the Silverdome," Friday, April 6, 1979. Tickets to the last home game for the Pistons against the Atlanta Hawks are available at all Romulus schools, the school board office and the mayor's office at city hall. The $6 price includes round-trip transportation from the city hall parking lot, reserved seats behind the piston bench and a free giant poster of Long. The high school band will be the feature during half-time entertainment before an expected crowd of some 8,000 fans as well as special presentations by Mayor William M. Oakley and school board President Wayne Avery.

Dance tickets on sale

Belleville High places 2nd in national debate

Two Belleville High School students were defeated recently in the finals of the National Bicentennial Debates, held in Williamsburg, Va. Kim Buchanan and Dennis Corder had the negative side in the debate topic of "Resolve: That the federal government should establish a comprehensive program to significantly increase the energy independence of the United States."

The duo was coached by David White and lost out to Susan and Jeffrey Herbst, a brother-and-sister team from Peekskill, N.Y.

The topic is one the students are familiar with—they have been debating it since the school year began.

In order to reach the final round of debates, both teams had to compete in nine previous rounds—six preliminary and three elimination—during the three-day tournament that began Feb. 6. More than 100 students from schools across the nation competed in the debates, which are sponsored by the Bicentennial Council of the 13 Original States Fund Inc. (BCTOS) and the Virginia Independence Bicentennial Commission (VIBC).

The final round was held by candlelight in the reconstructed Capitol of colonial Williamsburg in a room similar to the one in which Patrick Henry and other great Americans once debated.

The four finalists received $500 scholarships from the Bicentennial Council Fund. The Herbst team received for the year a rotating trophy donated by the Virginia District Exchange Clubs.

Jeffrey Herbst also took first place in the speaker's awards, by receiving a cumulative 328 points out of a possible 360. Speaker's points are awarded by the judges based upon the debater's overall skills exhibited during each of the six preliminary rounds. Miss Buchanan ranked second with 316 points, and both Miss Herbst and Corder also were among the 15 students receiving speaker's awards.

The Bicentennial Debates are unique in that the students not only debate and meet students from all parts of the country, but they also get the chance to tour the historic areas of Jamestown, Yorktown and Williamsburg.

The debates have been held annually since 1974 and will continue until 1981—the 200th anniversary of the victory at Yorktown, which ended the Revolutionary War. The College of William and Mary in Williamsburg and the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation cooperate with BCTOS and VIBC in holding the debates.

Good showing

Belleville High School debaters Dennis Corder (second from right) and Kim Buchanan (right) weren't successful in their arguments against federal government involvement in increasing energy independence, but they still manage to bring home a trophy for their high school. The twosome were finalists in the National Bicentennial

STRESS & STRAIN

There are a number of individual steps each of us can take to minimize unnecessary aggravation that make it difficult to cope with today's society and all of its problems. They are simple and helpful if undertaken each and every day.

PROPER DIET

During this time of convenience foods and quick-service restaurants, be certain you maintain an adequate diet. Eat a balanced meal each time you dine. Avoid excesses. Avoid skipping meals.

All of us have a tendency to eat too quickly. Take your time. Chew each mouthful of food thoroughly and calmly. Enjoy what you eat, don't gulp and run! Make it a pleasurable experience rather than just one of pure necessity.

PROPER REST

It's easy to stay up too late! Proper rest is essential to your body. It enables body and mind to relax and restore itself for the day ahead. There is no hard fast rule which determines how much sleep each person requires, but the norm seems to be eight hours of sleep regularly each night.

Another alternative is to take a short nap after the day's work. It may even be possible to take a quick catnap at the office or plant rather than a coffee break. Something as simple as leaning back in your chair and closing your eyes has powerful restorative properties. Again, the important thing to remember is to get the proper amount of rest you need, rather than "burning the candle at both ends".

PROPER EXERCISE

Although there is heightened interest in exercise to tone up the body, many people do not seem to recognize the value of it in their own lives.

Now, exercise doesn't mean everyone should play baseball or tennis. What proper exercise means is doing something physically which is appropriate for your age and general well-being. For some, a stroll around several blocks in the neighborhood is ideal. Others, of course, may wish to participate in something more physical and athletic such as golf or tennis. The key to good health is regularity of exercise, regardless of the type. Also, the admonition of not overdoing is important to keep in mind. Once you have an exercise program, keep it up with faithful regularity. If you have any doubts about the kind of exercise you should do, consult with your doctor of chiropractic.

PROPER MENTAL ATTITUDE

Look on life with a positive attitude. Don't be negative. There is always a silver lining to a gloomy cloud. The successful hard worker doesn't take the problems of the office or plant home with him. Become involved with others. Their problems frequently will diminish those you feel you have. Look toward new experiences. Don't allow yourself to fall into a rut. If you haven't read a book for a long time, perhaps now's the time to do it. If you've always gone south for a vacation, perhaps it's time to go west or north. A small change in lifestyle is an important step toward a proper outlook on life.

PROPER CHIROPRACTIC CARE

Your doctor of chiropractic is a specialist in the world's largest natural healing art. Most likely he will tell you the body actually corrects its own problem with the assistance of chiropractic adjustments. Today's chiropractor is a specialist in the spine. Have regular checkups. Your doctor will help you maintain your body at peak operating efficiency through skillfully delivered adjustments to those vertebrae which may be out of alignment. As he does so, normal nerve transmission from the brain to every part of the body is restored. As this occurs, you, too, will have good health.

To fund wage agreement

152 county employees face April 1 layoff

Some 152 Wayne County employees face layoff on April 1 in what was described as the 'first round' of the hundreds of layoffs which will be necessary unless the state grants requested relief from its mandated costs.

The layoffs were approved by the County Board of Commissioners March 1 in order to fund the $2.2 million cost of wage increases negotiated with county employee unions.

Board Chairman Richard E.

Manning described the decision as 'painful but necessary.'

The board's fiscal advisor, Edward E. Bobowski, said another round of layoffs, perhaps numbering 800-900, would be necessary on May 1 in order to eliminate the county's projected $14 million budget deficit.

The bulk of the cost, $1,909,000, represented the wage agreement with the largest employees union, Council 25 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees. The agreement ended a five-day strike by some 4,000 Council 25 members.

County Commissioner Norbert Wisniewski of Detroit proposed that there be a one-year moratorium on wage increases in order to avoid layoffs. His proposal died after a Council 25 spokesman, Henry Muller, told the board to 'not even consider' the idea.

The MFC also ordered the board not to approve additional expenditures without providing for their funding. Thus with no money in the budget for pay increases, the board had to cut department budgets in order to meet the cost of the labor contracts.

The gravity of the situation was underscored by the lopsided 21-1 vote in favor of the layoffs which were recommended by the board's Financial Crisis Committee.

"No commissioner — not one — wants to lay people off," said Commissioner Samuel A. Turner of Detroit, Financial Crisis Committee chairman and head of the board's Ways and Means Committee. "But unless the employees are not going to be paid, there has to be layoffs."

Bobowski recommended that specific jobs be eliminated in 11 agencies, but the Board of Commissioners amended that to allow department heads to substitute other positions as long as they added up to the same money savings. The agencies and the numbers of jobs recommended for elimination by Bobowski were:

Wayne County General Hospital 78; Parks Division 29; Health Department 12; Civil Service Commission 10; Bureau of Taxation 8; Board of Auditors (three agencies) 9; Board of Commissioners 1.

Manning has said he will ask the MFC to give the county two or three years' to bring revenues into line with costs in order to avoid the 'drastic curtailment of county services' which the MFC's present Nov. 30 deadline represents.

Airman Mack G. Adams II, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mack G. Adams of McBride Road, Romulus, has graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.

The airman, who is remaining at Lackland for specialized training in the security police field, studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

Airman Adams attended Romulus Senior High School.

Also in the armed forces: Pvt. Steve W. McQueer, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. McQueer of Bog Road, Belleville, recently completed One Station Unit Training (OSUT) at Fort Benning, Ga.

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training.

The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. This qualifies the soldier as a light weapons infantryman and as an indirect fire crewman.

Soldiers were taught to perform any of the duties in a rifle or mortar squad.

Pvt. Terry R. Edwards, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Edwards of McBride, Belleville, recently was assigned as a military policeman in the 226th Military Police Company at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind.

U.S. Air Force Major Brian L. Walters, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester O. Walters of Edgedale Drive, Belleville, is attending the Armed Forces Staff College at Norfolk, Va.

The five-month Department of Defense school provides students with intensive instruction related to national and international security. Major Walters, a 1960 graduate of Belleville High School, received his bachelor of science degree in 1965 from the University of Michigan and was commissioned through the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program. He earned his master of science degree in 1973 at Shippensburg (Pa.) State College.

The major's wife, Cheryl, is the daughter of Mrs. Paul Meece of Sanibel Island, Fla.

Cards changed

The Michigan Department of Social Services has begun a staggered issuance of Authorization to Participate (ATP) cards for food stamp recipients.

Begun March 1, the "new plan should serve as a convenience to recipients and also help alleviate congestion at post office issuance sites", according to Leland Hall, director of the Michigan Department of Social Services' Office of Food Programs.

Under the plan, the last digit of the recipient's case number determines the mailing date of the ATP card. Households can expect to receive ATP cards on approximately the same date each month.

Hall said federal regulations stipulate that ATP cards must be delivered to all participating households by the 15th of each month.

Can you survive?

(This is the third in a series of 12-articles, entitled Can You Survive, containing survival tips from the U.S. Air Force Survival School at Fairchild Air Force Base, Wash.)

It is 4 p.m. You are hunting in a remote mountainous area alone, and are approximately two hours from your camp. It is overcast and starting to rain; the temperature is in the 40s and apparently dropping. You do not have any protective rain gear with you and are clad only in boots, jeans and a pullover-sweatshirt. WOULD YOU...

A. Continue to hike out to your camp.
B. Stop and make a temporary camp and spend the night until daylight the next day.
C. Stop and evaluate the conditions and continue on to your camp.
D. Stop and wait until the rain has stopped and then continue on to your camp.

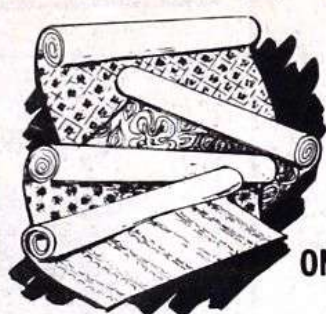

TO SURVIVE
(B) would be the best action according to survival experts. If caught in an area with approaching darkness and inclement weather, the outdoor enthusiast is wise to stop and spend the night rather than fight the elements. Extended exposure in the conditions noted can cause irreversible symptoms of hypothermia to set in and lead to incapacitation within a few hours or less.

To continue to hike out (A), might be acceptable, if the distance to camp could be covered in a few minutes instead of two hours with the weather conditions as indicated.

(C) provides little aid since the result is the same as (A).

(D) would be the most acceptable of the remaining alternatives provided enough daylight remained to negotiate and distance to your camp. (A Service of your local Air Force recruiter).

Just a sample

A sample of petitions, aimed at collecting some 66,000 voters' signatures to put a county executive proposal on the next county-wide election ballot, is displayed by 27th District County Commissioner William Joyner (left) and

Mr. and Mrs. James Reeves of Sumpter Township. The Reeves recently attended a meeting, called by Joyner and two other commissioners who initiated the petition drive, to express their support for the campaign.

Wayne County's Board of Commissioners has reaffirmed its endorsement of a charter commission as the first step toward election of a county executive to administer the nation's third-largest county.

The county legislators voted 14-7 to reaffirm their decision of two weeks earlier to endorse the concept of electing a charter commission to draw up a new county structure.

With the second vote, the board majority rejected a motion by two commissioners that the earlier vote be reconsidered.

The Board of Commissioners endorsed the charter commission concept Feb. 15, voting 20-1 for a resolution co-sponsored by Commissioners Arthur M. Carter and Rose Mary C. Robinson, both Detroit Democrats. The action was taken in the wake of a proposal by Gov. Milliken that the state pay the charter commission election costs for the financially-strapped county.

A yes vote by a majority of county voters would establish an elected charter commission to draft a proposed county charter for later submission to the voters in line with Public Act 293, the County Home Rule Act. A primary election for charter commission candidates would be held on the same ballot.

Main feature of the charter would be an elected executive office, giving the county a single chief executive for the first time. Executive powers now are diffused through various boards, commissions and elective offices.

The Board of Commissioners has put the charter commission proposal on the ballot twice since the County Home Rule Act was adopted in 1966. It was turned down both times.

However, the proposal gained fresh support recently when Gov. Milliken endorsed the concept in his annual budget message and proposed that Act 293 be amended to broaden support for the election of a charter commission.

With his budget message, Milliken endorsed the state's relieving the county of $5.7 million in annual court probation costs, but made his endorsement contingent on the county board's support of county reorganization.

The Board of Commissioners reaffirmed its support of the home rule charter concept March 1. In doing so, the majority rejected a motion to reconsider, which had been filed by Commissioners Mary E. Dumas of Livonia and R. William Joyner, Democrat representing Plymouth, Canton, Wayne, Belleville, Van Buren, Sumpter and part of Northville Township.

Dumas, Joyner and Commissioner Alex Pilch of Dearborn favor an alternative county executive proposal, available under Public Act 139 of 1973 and known as the Optional Form of County Government.

Following the majority endorsement of the charter commission approach, the three dissidents launched a campaign to put the "optional form" county executive proposal on the 1980 election ballot. They need to collect some 66,000 voters' signatures and have held meetings in Plymouth and Livonia to enlist petition circulators. A Dearborn meeting is planned.

The board majority accepted the Carter-Robinson arguments that the charter commission approach permits voter participation and the tailoring of reorganization to fit local conditions. Also considered was criticism to the effect that the alternative Act 139 has many flaws.

Duman, Joyner and Pilch said they favor Act 139 because it is a quicker route to the needed county executive in that it would require only two elections — a primary and a final — compared with four elections for the charter approach.

A Joyner resolution proposing that the Board of Commissioners put the Act 139 proposal on the 1980 primary election ballot died for lack of support in the board's General Government Committee.

Appliance service contract: Is it worthwhile expense?

By LINDA JOY
Executive Director
Michigan Consumers Council

Many consumers are asked to purchase a service contract when they buy an appliance. While this may be a worthwhile investment in some cases, it shouldn't be purchased automatically.

Service contracts often are confused with warranties, but they are actually very different. A warranty comes with the product at no extra cost. For example, when a refrigerator is purchased, the merchant doesn't add $10 to the bill of sale for the warranty — it's free of charge. But a service contract must be purchased separately from the product for an additional fee.

One advantage of having a service contract is security. When an appliance is covered by a service contract, it's almost like having an insurance policy on that product. For an annual fee, the product will be repaired if it breaks down. This security is very important to some consumers.

But a service contract also can be an expensive investment. The cost of the contract may be more than any actual repairs the product might need in its lifetime. For example, if a service contract costs $50 per year and the repair on the product comes to $5, the owner of the contract has spent $45 on nothing.

To help decide whether a service contract is worth the cost, try to find out the average number of times per year an appliance should need repairs. This information may be available from the manufacturer or from consumer magazines. These sources also may be able to provide consumers with the average cost of a service call. With these two figures, it's possible to calculate whether a service contract is economical.

Consumers should know there are alternatives to service contracts. To keep appliances in good working order, read the owner's manual and keep up with maintenance suggestions. Many service calls could possibly be avoided by these preventive measures.

It's also possible to set aside or budget money to take care of unexpected repairs around the home.

When purchasing a major appliance, consumers should make sure that the cost of a service contract is not automatically included in the bill. Some merchants may presume all customers wish to have a service contract and include its cost on the bill without explaining that the extra fee is optional.

This practice is illegal under Michigan's Consumer Protection Act, which states all material facts about a sale must be revealed to the consumer. Consumers who think a business is hiding facts about a service contract or any other part of the sale should notify the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, 525 W. Ottawa, Lansing 48933.

Is it time to pull the plug — on the church's coffee-maker, I mean.

The coffee hour after church may have had its day. If my visits to church coffee hours in the last year are any indication, fewer people are going to these fellowship hours after church. They are heading for home instead.

Coffee hours were once a novel idea. I instituted them at King's Chapel in Boston in 1952 when they were just becoming a novelty. But the novelty is gone.

If we must have something after church, can't we be more creative? Maybe a "health-food Sunday," when we could have carrot and celery sticks and vegetable juices. Or a "brown-bag lunch Sunday," when we would all bring our own lunches and sit down and eat them at tables. People would hold hands around each table while each person would say a little grace — from the heart. No memorized graces.

A minister's family I know decided last week that what they missed most in winter were picnics. So they had another family in and had a picnic on the living room floor. They roasted hot dogs in the fireplace.

The children even cut ants out of paper and put them on the floor! How about your church having a picnic in March — complete with paper ants — after church?

Too much work?

Well then, let's all go home after church.

For the first time a couple of weeks ago, I heard somebody speak in "tongues." It was at an Assembly of God church.

A woman stood up during the service and for the next 15 or 20 seconds spoke fluently in Hebrew, although she is Slovak and told me later that she doesn't know a word of Hebrew.

How do you explain such a thing? I can't — and the Pentecostals need no explanation. They are sure it is the Holy Spirit speaking through the born-again Christian.

In moments of high ecstasy, when a Spirit-baptized person finds his vocabulary woefully inadequate to express the gratitude he feels, he begins to speak in "tongues" — often some unintelligible language, sometimes in a foreign tongue unknown to him but which others can understand.

Skeptics consider tongues-speaking to be a psychological phenomenon, not something supernatural.

A study by the National Institute of Mental Health concluded that speaking in tongues is "an overflowing kind of emotion so overpowering that it gives rise to one's speaking in non-conscious language. It provides release from tension and brings great feelings of peace and relaxation which apparently last."

The source of the tongues-speaking is the speaker's "unconscious" mind, the researchers said. Speaking in tongues, they determined, is like "baby talk" — automatic and fluent speech of a kind that an ordinary person cannot produce by conscious effort.

I like that, but I began to wonder later whether most of our prayers aren't for somebody else. Would you agree?

Before the end of the service, the same minister told his people to "say hello to three people — calling them by their first name — before you leave the church."

Most of us like to hear our names spoken. We ought to speak each other's names more often in conversation.

I like it when some ministers address communicants at the communion rail by their first names: "George, this is the blood of Christ, shed for you..." "Mary, this is the body of Christ, given for you." Pastors who attempt this should be sure, however, that they have good memories.

JOYCE AKERS

A high school senior from Romulus did well in the third annual History Day competition at Eastern Michigan University Feb. 20. She is Joyce Akers, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Akers of King Street. Joyce was a runner-up in the scholarship competition for a Presidential Award. History Day is sponsored by EMU's history faculty. Some 200 high school teachers and students were on campus for the day's activities.

School to host dinner

The Kalisz School of Polish Culture is sponsoring a St. Patrick's-St. Joseph's Day dinner-dance at the PNA Hall, located at the corner of Sumpter and Harris roads in Belleville.

The dinner-dance will be Saturday from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Music for dancing will be by the Larry Michaels Orchestra, and beer and set-ups are included in the $7.50 per person cost.

For tickets contact Gerry Evanski at 697-0409 or Frank Lemanski at 461-1815.

The dinner-dance is one of many fund raisers held by students to finance their summer study tour of Poland.

Some say distilled water from boiled tansy plants is good for removing freckles.

What's for lunch?

Turkey salad sandwiches, ravioli with meat sauce, and beef turnovers are on tap for students in the Van Buren public schools next week.

In elementary schools the menu Monday will include ravioli with meat sauce, vegetable, bread and butter, cookies and milk, followed by a lineup of soup and crackers, tacos, fruit, cookies and milk Tuesday.

Next Wednesday students will be dining on juice, sloppy joes on buns, french fries, fruit Jell-O and milk, while slated for next Thursday is a menu of soup and crackers, salad, cole slaw or a vegetable, pudding and milk.

Next Friday the main entree will be oven-grilled cheese sandwiches, with side dishes of tator rounds, fruit Jell-O, cobbler and milk.

In the family luncheon-style program at Quirk, West Willow and Savage schools the menu Monday will have a Mexican and green peppers, lettuce, peaches, Jell-O, cookies and milk.

Tuesday the menu will be ravioli, green beans, tossed salads with Italian dressing, white or wheat bread with butter, fruit Jell-O and milk, followed by a lineup of beef turnovers with mashed potatoes and gravy, tossed salads with Italian dressing, peaches, cake, pears, and milk.

Next Thursday students will be dining on pizza, radishes, carrot and celery sticks, fruit Jell-O, mixed fruit, pudding and milk, while closing out the week will be a menu of tuna and noodle casserole or macaroni and cheese, peas and carrots, cole slaw, white or wheat bread with butter, pears, cobbler and milk.

In the junior and senior high schools student will Monday be dining on cheeseburgers or turkey salad and egg salad club sandwiches on rye bread, corn, french fries, fruit Jell-O, peaches, milk or a cold drink.

Tuesday's menu will include ravioli or Coney Island foot-longs, tator tots, french fries, mixed fruit, tossed salads, hot garlic bread, cookies, milk, or a cold drink, while slated for next Wednesday is a menu of Italian spaghetti with meat sauce or tostadas and burritos, soup and crackers, pineapple, french fries, green beans, hot garlic bread, and milk.

What's your excuse?

Michigan's traffic enforcement officers have heard it all — especially as they listen to errant drivers trying to alibi their way out of a speeding ticket in these days of the 55-mph speed limit.

And the Michigan Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) wants to get it all in print. The FOP this month announced a state-wide contest among all peace officers to find who has heard the most "creative" excuse for speeding. Winning entries will be published in the June edition of its Peace Officer Magazine.

"Traffic enforcement does have its lighter moments," noted FOP officials, "and perhaps this contest is the one way to prove that to ourselves."

The officer who submits the winning entry — as judged by an FOP panel which already has proven that is is not immune to humor — will win a personal Fuzzbuster II police radar detector unit, or, if the winner so chooses, a CB radio.

MUSICAL NOTES
by Doug Brown

The harpsichord is the great granddaddy of the piano. It is one of the very first plucked-string key board instruments and was first perfected in Italy in the 1500s after more than 200 years of experimentation with key board form. It became popular throughout Europe, and manufacturing centers were set up in France, Germany, Flanders, and Britain. By the 17th and 18th centuries, the bright, clear sound of the harpsichord made it a popular solo instrument and a favorite of composers. It is from these beginnings that the piano was developed.

Travel TALK
FROM
ADVENTURE TRAVEL SERVICE
Gary Sampson
SPECTACULAR SPAIN
The problem of traveling in Spain is how to partake of its abundance of splendors. With so many centers of interest, the ideal trip would sample several. Madrid, with the cosmopolitan attractions of a great capital, could occupy a visitor for days or weeks. It's close enough to serve as a base from which to visit Toledo or Avila. Then zero in on the heart of classic Spain, the mysterious, romantic Spain of song, story and travelogue — Andalusia — with its trio of great cities, picturesque town and splendid monuments to Moorish rule and Christian reconquest. Finally, relax and have some fun on the Costa del Sol with its sweep of beaches, up-to-date resorts and high-rise hotels.
The country remains one of Europe's best travel buys. It offers something to satisfy every interest, with hotels, restaurants and shops at each point on a scale to suit any budget.
Iberia Air Lines schedules frequent flights between all of Spain's key cities. If you prefer to drive, car rentals are easy and Spanish roads are much improved.

Through Alternative Program

Dropouts find meaning and success in life

William Searcy is helping young teen-aged school dropouts find meaning and success in life.

The attendance counselor at Fellrath Middle School in Inkster is director of a program that gives students a chance to work in career activities they are interested in.

Given new interests in learning, the potential dropouts are motivated to become successful in their chosen line of work.

The idea for the Alternative Program started about 18 months ago, in the fall of 1977, when a select committee met to study how to keep students from dropping out of school in their early teens.

They devised a program to increase the students' self-image, decrease truancy and to improve the sociability of the students in relation to his family, peers, community and educational system. Most of these students were potential dropouts.

After the committee reached a consensus of opinion on goals and objectives, Searcy worked during the 1977-78 school year to find businesses willing to employ the students. This was the most difficult task since most of the students, were under 16 and many employers were uncertain and felt too much supervision may be needed.

"This was not the only obstacle that delayed our program one year," explained Searcy. "We had to solve ways to get the students to the job sites and at the start of the 1978-79 school year these problems were solved and we began the Alternative Program."

The Alternative Program has the students attend classes for language, math, science and social studies during the regular school day from 8 a.m. to noon. Then the students attend an Alternative Work Incentive Program from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m. from Monday through Thursday each week.

Every Friday there is a seminar to review and discuss any problem situations.

Searcy is pleased with the progress made so far and hopes the program is expanded.

"I would like to see in the future an educational program based on the individual learning needs of the students and to bolster the development of positive attitudes toward the learning process," said Searcy, who is a strong student advocate.

"Students have found a new way of combining book learning with in-the-field services to enlighten their future success, and maintain the motivation needed to stay in school," said the 25-year-old Fellrath counselor.

"The students seem to agree that this new alternative program is the best thing to happen to them during their years at Fellrath."

Searcy, who has been in the Inkster Public School system since 1968, has had a varied career here. During this time, he has taught in the classroom, worked as a librarian, taught physical education, counseled at Inkster High School, been an assistant coach at IHS, taught Adult Education and worked as a part-time director of Inkster Parks and Recreation.

Dr. Cleveland Hammonds, superintendent of Inkster Public Schools has high praise for Searcy. "He's one of the hardest working faculty members that we've ever had. He's interested in the children's welfare and we're real proud to have him working with us," Hammonds said. Searcy holds a bachelor of science degree in health and physical education and general science, with a minor in history from Winston Salem University, Winston Salem, N.C.

He also has a master of art degree in guidance and counseling from Eastern Michigan University and a certificate of social work through the State of Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulation.

He is presently enrolled in a post graduate course in guidance and counseling at University of Michigan where he hopes to earn a doctorate.

Searcy says his goal in life "is to be the best possible person he can possibly be in any given situation."

And he's working hard to help young students accomplish the same thing.

Giving students new hope

William W. Searcy, attendance counselor at Fellrath Middle School, recently awarded four of his Alternative Program students certificates of promotion to Inkster High School. The program helps disinterested students find meaningful employment while still pursuing basic school subjects. Several potential dropouts have found new hope and interest in life through the program, which started this school year. Searcy (center) awarded certificates to James Craig (from left), Cheryl Lindsay, Carlton Reese and Chris Garner.

Grant signups sought

The United Foundation and United Community Services again are accepting applications from neighborhood and community groups for the purpose of providing community-based summer activities for children and youth in the out-Wayne County area.

Programs from low-income areas that aim at serving youths ages 6 through 18 years by providing interesting and creative activities, such as crafts, arts, cultural, educational and recreational instruction, are particularly encouraged to apply.

Applications and guidelines are available from the United Community Services by calling 833-0622 ext. 34 or 29, or 292-4111. They also can be obtained by writing the Summer Program Office, 51 W. Warren, Detroit 48201, or Wayne Division Office, 24321 Van born Road Taylor 48180.

The deadline for submitting applications is March 23.

FUNERALS FOR THE MILITARY AND FRATERNAL

When a veteran's military funeral and burial is required, there are specific ceremonies, equipment and procedures that must be adhered to—and exactly! We have the proper ceremonial equipment and are well-versed in military protocol so that we can provide services "by the book" in honoring the veteran in his final hour.

Fraternal orders, such as the Masons, also have specific funeral requirements. We have conducted many, many funerals for members of fraternal and religious orders, so we are used to handling those rituals so important to the brotherhoods.

If you would like to have advance information regarding military requirements and veteran's funeral and burial expense allowances, or about the many fraternal order funerals we have conducted, just call or drop by. We invite you to counsel with our funeral specialists, be he Masonic, military, K of C, Elks or any of the other fine groups in the area.

W-W voters reject increase

Wayne-Westland voters said no March 5 to more taxes to support the schools, defeating a proposed 3-mill tax increase by 142 votes.

The final tally was 3,482 no votes to 3,340 yes votes in the election that brought out about 17 percent of the registered voters in the Wayne-Westland Community Schools.

But it's almost a sure thing that residents haven't seen the last of the millage request, especially since the margin of defeat was not large.

However, even if the millage request is put back on the ballot in June, when there will be annual school elections, the district will be going ahead with program reductions now. The $2 million that would have been generated by the three mills must be trimmed out of school programs. The district has been hard-pressed financially because of inflation and declining enrollment, and asked for the new millage simply to maintain existing programs.

Superintendent Timothy J. Dyer spent March 6 in meetings with his staff and school principals, plotting the reductions and layoffs that were promised if the millage failed.

He said he expects to have his proposals to the board by its March 26 meeting.

According to law, the district must issue layoff notices for the following school year to teachers at least 60 days before the end of the school year. That makes April 15 the deadline for pink-slipping teachers.

Administrators will have to be given notice by April 1, 90 days before the end of their year (they are hired on a 12-month schedule, while teachers are on a 9-month year).

Therefore, staff reduction decisions must be made fast.

The Question and Answer booklet published before the election promised 200 layoffs if the millage failed. Those layoffs will be done across the board, in all areas from administrators, to teachers, to support staff, Dyer said. And those layoffs will cause a ripple effect throughout the district as employees, particularly teachers, "bump" into other jobs because of seniority. This will cause a significant change in staff make-up at the various schools, Dyer predicted.

Other cutbacks that were predicted included reduction of the secondary school day by one hour, dropping of summer school and reduction of athletic programs, art, music and physical education programs.

Dyer noted that cutbacks will be implemented only after the board approves them. He and his administrators will make cutback recommendations from which the board will choose.

"This was the only place where people could say no. They can't say no in the grocery store, or at the gas pump. But this was one place where they could say no and they did. A lot of the frustration probably had nothing to do with us (the schools)."

A long day

School elections are not notorious for their large turnouts, so it is sometimes a long day for election workers who are on the scene from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. Workers manning the polls at Washington School on Glenwood were Joanne Tupakavich (left) and Hattie Lowe, who used the empty times to check some of their records. The voting saw a turnout of about 17 percent of registered voters in the Wayne-Westland Community Schools. The request for an additional three mills for school operation failed. — ANP photo.

Batterson appointed to school board post

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

Mildred Batterson of Wayne, at a special meeting Feb. 28 was picked to replace Robert Reichard as member of the Wayne-Westland Board of Education.

Mrs. Batterson was appointed by the six other board members Feb. 28. In total, some 15 persons had applied to the board for the appointment. That list at an earlier meeting had been narrowed, by ballot, to five. The final candidates were Mrs. Batterson, Vincent Petitpre, Mary Arbour, Kathy Rockwell and Jerry Smith.

The new board member was not at the meeting, but immediately following the appointment she was called and came to the board office for a study session.

A graduate of Wayne Memorial High School, Mrs. Batterson is a long-time resident of the community and well known in Wayne civic affairs. She served as a Wayne City Council member for four years, the Recreation Advisory Board and Wayne Summer Festival Committee.

Mrs. Batterson has a bachelor's degree in physical education, and at one time taught as a substitute teacher in the Wayne-Westland Community Schools.

She is the mother of five children — Tracey, 18, a freshman at Central Michigan University; Kelly, a senior at Wayne Memorial; Gretchen, a junior at Wayne Memorial; Catherine, 15; and Mary, 13; both students at Franklin Junior High.

The new board member is employed as a special service representative for Sandoz Pharmaceuticals, working primarily on hospital accounts and special training programs.

She is the third member to be appointed to the 7-member school board in the past year. Besides Mrs. Batterson, Kenneth Marshall and Donald Rusnock were appointed, not elected, to the board.

MILDRED BATTERSON

All three will have to run for election in June, if they want to keep the board seat. Mrs. Batterson said she definitely will seek election.

She said she was "very honored" with being picked, particularly from the large field of qualified people who put their names forth for the appointment. She said she believes she can make a contribution to the board, especially because of her experience on the Wayne City Council.

One of her top goals is to see more emphasis in the district on vocational training, a priority that will get attention when the vocational education center, now being built, is completed, she said. She noted that there are lots of careers that are not explored by young people because they don't know about them.

SAFETY SAMPLER

Every year thousands of children are poisoned by hazardous household substances.

Keep all poisons locked up. Always read the warning labels on hazardous products. Keep all hazardous products in their original containers.

For further information about poison prevention, write: U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C. 20207 or call toll-free 800-638-2666. Maryland residents only call 800-492-2937.

Safer way to save

These are uncertain times for investors. In the last year, market fluctuations have increased in frequency and have been less predictable than usual.

The vagaries of market conditions affect the small saver and investor more strongly than the large, since each loss hurts much more.

But the changeability of the markets can be traded for a steady, reliable income — an income which over the past five years has been hard to beat.

The medium in U.S. Savings Bonds. Since 1972, only two methods of savings or investment have gained more in value — a house, and 6-year certificates of deposit (the CDs only marginally).

The reason is simple. Savings Bonds are unaffected by market forces. They receive interest at a fixed rate. That interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax can be deferred until the Bonds are cashed or reach final maturity. As a result, Bonds gain in value more than a medium with the same interest rate that is subject to taxation each year.

The value of Savings Bonds — both principal and interest — is guaranteed by the U.S. government so, unlike stocks, it is impossible for Bonds to go down in redemption value. And, if the securities are lost or stolen, they can be replaced without charge.

To stem unemployment

Bill battles states 'runaway' businesses

In an effort to deal with the economic damage caused by

Dressage expert to speak

The Romulus Horsemens' Association will be hosting a prominent dressage speaker at its March 21 meeting.

Charlie Barnett of East Lansing, and president of the Midwest Dressage Association, will present a slide show and lecture on "What Dressage Can Do for Your Horse". There also will be a display of dressage equipment.

The association meets on the third Wednesday of the month at 7:30 p.m. in the Romulus City Hall, 11111 Goddard Road. The meetings are open to the public.

Horse enthusiasts who are interested in association membership need not be residents of Romulus.

business and plant closings in Michigan, a bill, which would require companies receiving tax incentives for a facility to repay state or local governments if they decided to close the facility down, has been introduced in the House.

The sponsor, State Rep. Perry Bullard (D-Ann Arbor), cites the bill as part of a legislative effort to keep business in Michigan and stem the tide of unemployment resulting from the shutdown of various businesses.

"According to figures developed by UAW economists, more than 200,000 jobs were lost in Michigan between 1967 and 1973 due to plant closings. The situation hasn't improved any since then," Bullard said. "In a good many cases, businesses close their plant facilities, not because they cannot make a profit, but for other reasons such as owner retirement, relocation in another state to maximize profits, or decisions to close down rather than restructure production to comply with changes in government antipollution regulations."

"Clearly, in these situations it is in the best interest of the employees, the community and the Michigan public to try to keep these industrial facilities in operation. Hopefully, this bill would provide some incentive for them to do so," Bullard said. "At the very least, it would reimburse in a small manner the state and local communities for monetary loss incurred when jobs and payrolls are cut off."

The legislation takes an old idea and updates

it to fit current economic practices. It amends a statute that already requires repayment of loans and restoration of property which were given as an inducement for a company location decision. The bill adds tax credits and tax exemptions which are the modern form of business location incentives to the coverage of the act.

A bill previously introduced by Bullard would authorize the Michigan Department of Labor to assist employees of "runaway plants" to set up employee-owned corporations that could buy out and continue operating the businesses that are closing.

It would establish a "Program of Assistance to Worker-Owned Corporations" within the Department of Labor, and mandate that two full-time staff persons plus clerical help be assigned to the program. Under the program, it would be the Labor Department's responsibility to meet with employees, corporate officials, union representatives and local community representatives to investigate the possibility of converting to employee ownership when a company had made a decision to close its plant. If such an option seemed feasible, the department would work with the employees to set up the corporation, obtain necessary financing, provide employee-management training and whatever other resources might be called for.

County hospital hosts CPR class

Instruction in Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) will be offered at Wayne County General Hospital at no charge to any interested individual.

The course will consist of nine hours of instruction and will begin on March 15 at 7 p.m. There will be a total of three sessions — each three hours in length.

Class size will be limited to 25 people. To register, please call Fern Vining or Elaine Saneske at 274-3000, ext. 6214.

CITY OF ROMULUS NOTICE

LEGAL NOTICE TO FAMILIES WHO LIVED IN PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS OPERATED BY THE ROMULUS HOUSING COMMISSION OR LIVED IN PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS IN ANY OTHER CITY BETWEEN MARCH 16, 1971, - SEPTEMBER 26, 1975.

If you rented a house or apartment from the ROMULUS HOUSING COMMISSION or any other Public Housing Agency (PHA) during the period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, you may be eligible to file a claim for a refund of part of your rent during that period if:

1. The wife or husband of the head of the household was present and dependent upon the head of the household for support and/or;
2. a dependent member of your family household was employed.

If you believe your family falls within one of the categories described above, you may wish to continue reading this Notice in order to determine how and under what circumstances you may file a claim.

On July 7, 1978, the District Court of the District of Columbia entered a Stipulated Order providing that the definition of family income for purposes of computing maximum rentals for public housing, as contained in a HUD Circular, which excluded spouses from the $300 deduction for each dependent and excluded dependents from the $300 deduction for each secondary wage earner, was invalid and violated the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended. The effect of this determination is that certain families who lived in public housing during the period from March 16, 1971, to September 26, 1975, may have been charged too much rent. Therefore, the District Court ordered HUD to establish a one million dollar fund for the payment of claims which current or former tenants of public housing may submit for a refund of any overpayments.

The District Court's Stipulated Order provides that, if valid claims exceed one million dollars, HUD has the option of having the Order dissolved in which case NTO and HUD may negotiate a modified settlement or proceed with further litigation. Thus, claimants should realize that the submittal of a claim determined valid by a PHA may result in full, partial, or no payment, depending on the total amount of valid claims submitted to HUD, or the final outcome of any further litigation. Any person wishing to receive a copy of the Stipulated Order or a claim form may do so by making their request known to a local PHA.

Individuals wishing to submit a claim must fill in the claim form made a part of this Notice and must submit it to the Public Housing Agency's address indicated on the claim form, or such other appropriate Public Housing Agency if different from the address indicated, within 120 days from Dec. 6, 1978. No claims will be accepted after the end of the 120 day period, April 6, 1979.

Information provided by the claimant on the claim form must be specific as to the time period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, for which the wife or husband of the head of the household was present and was a dependent and/or a dependent in the household was employed.

Publish every week until April 4.

On income tax forms

Non-salary remuneration should be declared

(This is the last in a series of articles prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants offering advice on filing 1978 income tax returns.)

In 1978, Internal Revenue Service was restrained by Congress from imposing stiff new rules that would have taxed most of the fringe benefits people receive from their employers.

But, while we can safely assume we will not be taxed on our free parking privileges in a company lot, at least not for 1978, there seem to be questions in the minds of many regarding the tax treatment of other non-salary remuneration.

When declaring taxable income, should you include gifts received, prize winnings, insurance proceeds, or tax refunds from earlier years?

How about employer-paid health and life insurance, pension benefits, the summer-job earnings of your children?

Those are just a few of the types of income that worry some taxpayers at filing time.

Let's take up employees' fringe benefits first. The existing law, together with IRS policies, provide that the following "perks" go untaxed:

- Company-paid health insurance;
 - Company-paid group-term life insurance up to $50,000;
 - Company provided meals and lodging, if on company's premises and for company's convenience. (For lodging to go untaxed it must be a condition of employment, as in the case of firemen who sleep in so they will be available, if needed;
 - Medical exams by company doctors; and
 - Discounts in buying the company's products or services.
- The employer-provided benefits

CLEAN-UP FIX-UP PAINT-UP

that were and still are taxable include:

- Premiums attributable to group-term life insurance coverage over $50,000;
- Personal use of company car, airplane or vacation facilities; and
- Personal financial counseling.

Fringe-benefit rules may soon be changed drastically, but these still apply to tax returns being prepared now.

What about non-perks — cash or non-cash benefits received from sources other than an employer? Following are some that are not taxable:

- Benefits from Social Security and Railroad Retirement and pension plans funded by the employee's own contributions (employer-funded pension benefits are taxable);
- Most "windfalls," or gifts and awards that come to the recipient without his having performed some service or having paid some consideration — this can include legacies, merit awards, scholarships but not gambling winnings or the proceeds of a lottery or raffle;

- The proceeds of lawsuits in certain circumstances; and
- Welfare payments.

Your children's earnings are not taxable income to you. If their income was high enough they should file tax returns of their own, but you can still take the youngsters as dependents if they qualify. And if you claim the children as an exemption on your return, care must be exercised on their return to get the correct standard deduction.

Refunds of federal taxes paid in previous years are not taxed, but any interest they earned is. State and local tax refunds are taxable, if previously taken as deductions on federal returns.

If you collect money owed after having taken a bad-debt deduction for it in previous years, there is no need to amend the earlier returns; treat the money as income in the year received.

Alimony is taxable to the recipient, if it is required by the divorce settlement and is paid regularly over an extended period.

Support urged for Federal Con Con

Not much has changed in the 200 year history of these United States.

In the beginning, our national leaders mistrusted the voice of the people and consequently wrote into the constitution, a provision for the electoral college.

Today, our leaders are lamenting the possibility of a national constitutional convention called by the people who have elected them. Those leaders are now adopting rules which would give them veto power over any convention action.

It is apparent that today's leaders share our founding father's reluctance to rely on the collective wisdom of the people. Even though, on most occasions, the people have displayed far superior judgment than the leaders.

At the heart of the thorny problem which our elected officials may soon face, is the drive by a Washington based group called, National Taxpayers Union (NTU).

NTU hopes to spear-head a national call for a constitutional convention, with the goal of the eventual adoption of an amendment to require the federal government to balance its budget.

It goes without saying that most of our elected officials, as well as the millions of others feeding at the public trough, would be more than just a little upset by the prospects of such an amendment.

While talking of a balanced budget is a favorite political pastime, no serious politician would be willing to vote on cutting his favorite special interest group's appropriations anymore than he would be willing to cut his own wrists. But if NTU is successful, that may also happen.

To date, 26 states have already passed resolutions calling for the convention, and similar resolutions have been introduced in every state except Michigan, Illinois, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York and Kentucky.

For such a convention to be called, two-thirds of the states — 34 — would have to request one.

Several states in addition to the 26 who have already approved the convention call, have action pending on the question in one or both houses.

The growing support for the calling of a constitutional convention that would force the federal government to balance the budget, is putting pressure on Congress to head-off any such unlimited citizen based move to amend the constitution.

According to President Carter, the same Carter who promised to cut government, "any such convention would be completely uncontrollable." According to Senator Robert Bird, "a balanced budget requirement could endanger national security or deprive the government of flexibility for handling economic problems."

The only notable exception to the list of ranking officials who have expressed opposition at the convention is California's Governor Jerry Brown.

Among the plans proposed to head-off the convention call are several which limit government spending to a ratio of either gross national product or previous federal spending levels.

So far, none deal with the real issue.

Like the Michigan tax revolt of '78, the national move to limit government spending finds the same forces lined-up on either side of the issue.

Government, its employees, and special interest, are firmly opposed to the convention while the taxpayers and some fugitive economists are supporting it.

There is no question that approval and adoption of a national amendment to require the federal government to balance the budget would create considerable pain for almost everyone. But the question, in the long run, is not our threshold for pain but the very survival of our way of life.

With inflation cited as the most serious problem facing us, and government's spending directly responsible for that inflation, the only cure for the problem cannot be overlooked any longer. A cut in government spending that will match income with expenditures. Any other course is unjustifiable in view of the ultimate consequences of lack of action.

To some, the move to limit government spending is simply another special interest group's efforts to improve their own situation.

But in the larger view, the taxpayer's revolt holds the promise of being the salvation for our system and way of life.

Narrow minded and selfish individuals will never concede that government's obligation is to serve everyone as equally as possible. Further, special interest will never willingly surrender its political advantage.

Given this situation, the collective voice of the people is the only accurate barometer of the proper course of action.

It is time for that advice to be taken and studied.

We support the goals of NTU nationally, and are disappointed that Michigan has not as yet joined in the call for a constitutional convention to limit federal spending.

We think that every Michigan resident should join in the struggle to see this convention called.

Last November, three separate tax reform proposals were listed on the ballot. Several million Michigan residents overwhelmingly supported the successful tax limitation amendment to this state's constitution.

Apparently, our elected representatives still have not gotten the message.

Editor's Log

Dear Senator Levin: "Can you spare a dime?"

Dear Senator:
Congratulations on your recent election to the U.S. Senate.

I have never written to you before, but I have addressed many of my comments and concerns to other elected officials who have gone before. Either they never received my letters, or their franking budget had been exceeded (if that is possible), and they were unable to reply.

Now, perhaps I should explain that I do not consider myself a chronic complainer. I do on occasion assume a rather rigid position on some subjects of importance, but, by-and-large, I am fair beyond reasonable expectations.

Like most Americans, I only reluctantly make the decision to write my elected representative. I have been told on more than one occasion that "under our representative form of government, I elect someone to represent me, not someone to mirror my opinion."

While I do not agree with that premise entirely, I am outnumbered and must retire on that point in the face of your overwhelming advantage. But to the point.

At a time when most Americans are in the process of again tightening their belts to deal with the latest assault on their pocketbooks by both inflation and Washington spending, an article appeared in one of the Metro papers.

That article chronicled the efforts of your colleagues in the pursuit of bolstering the morale of the American people in the face of bad economic news.

In the face of those nasty unpatriotic rumors, our elected members of Congress have once again demonstrated that "their is nothing to fear but fear itself."

To prove the stability of our government and the capacity of our government printing presses, you have provided yourselves with an impressive list of regal 'perks' which must dispell any concern over our American economy.

You and your colleagues have provided yourselves with personal airline ticket offices, post offices, dining rooms, coffee shops, doctor's offices, recording studio, railroad ticket office, credit union, barber shops, gymnasiums (including a ladies-only facility), your own caterers, carry-out food service, a staff club, personal photographers, chaplains, car washes, tobacco shops, family dining room with bath and phone, and under construction is a new $600,000 dining room, $350,000 gymnasium, $1-million press room and retail liquor business. To make it all run, you have on staff plumbers, painters, electricians, air-conditioning repairmen, computer technicians, typewriter repairmen, engineers, sheet metal workers, elevator repairmen, cooks, dishwashers, garage attendants, librarians and police.

'Like being born again'

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

Late last week, it was Thursday morning to be exact, I stopped in at a local restaurant for a quick cup of coffee before heading on to my office.

I sat down with an old friend named Willie Young who owns Bill's Print Shop in Westland. Willie and I meet for coffee often in the morning. Willie is the kind of person, who if Damon Runyan had not met him, he would have dreamed him up for one of his books.

Willie looked across the booth and said, "R.J., guess what I saw yesterday morning?"

With Willie, you some times are afraid to ask for the answer to his question for fear it'll be something you might not want to hear early in the morning.

I took another drag on my cigarette, and fearfully said, "What did you see, Will?"

He said that while on an important delivery, he had stopped at the corner of Schuman and Hively — it was 9:05 a.m. — and what to his wondering eyes did appear but two Robin red breasts.

Robins, I thought, the true harbingers of Spring. In truth, though, I guess bird experts have pretty well decided that Robins really stay around all winter. They just seem to be smarter than humans and they keep out of harm's way during the miserableness which accompanies winter.

As I drove on to work, musing all the while about Willie spotting the Robins, I determined that this column ought properly be about the magnificent time of year called Spring.

Now according to the book, Spring is that time of year between winter and summer when plant life begins to vegetate.

To the more proper scientists among us, Spring occurs between the Vernal Equinox and the Summer Solstice; those are fancy words which describe the time approximately between March 21 and June 21 in our hemisphere.

I'm personally convinced that the only thing which makes living in the latitudes of the Midwest tolerable is the advent of Spring.

Wow. You can sit back and forget about driving through those ice slicks during winter. You'd like to forget about the salt used to melt the bloody ice and snow, but the little rust pits on your car makes that feat difficult.

But, to me it's like being born again. If you walk outdoors at just a little picked-up pace, you might even feel a drop or two of perspiration start to trickle down your brow. Isn't that nice. Hot dog, it's time to smile again.

'Freedom fighters' win another round

By Rev. L. Lester Kinsolving

Joshua N'Komo's brave "freedom fighters" have won another victory — over a group of civilians in an unarmed Rhodesian airliner, which they shot out of the sky.

All aboard died, including blacks as well as whites, from six nations.

These "freedom fighters" — who are financed by the World Council of Churches and the United Methodist Church in the United States — have proven either inept or unwilling when it comes to doing battle against the racially integrated Rhodesian Army. But they are getting better at civilian-killing. For all of their victims died immediately, this time.

Last September, there were 18 people who managed to crawl out of the wreckage of an airliner where 36 died. So the brave "freedom fighters" were obliged to finish off these unarmed survivors in the manner of the SS at Babi Yar.

Even here they were not altogether efficient. For one of the passengers was a Danish immigrant to Rhodesia, Iver Hansen, a fisherman.

Hansen was able to survive because he lay motionless with the butchered bodies of his fellow passengers. Here he heard a 70-year-old woman pleading:

"Oh please don't kill us!"

This was just before she was killed — as was "a small Asian girl whom I saw, just a few meters away, as one of them drove a bayonet through her head."

Hansen was present at a Washington news conference called on February 16 by the American Security Council. But if either of Washington's daily newspapers even had a reporter present at this undeniably newsworthy news conference, there was no mention of it in either paper the following day.

Last September 3rd, in the Cathedral Church of St. Mary and All Saints in Salisbury, Dean J.R. da Costa preached a brief but poignant sermon at the memorial service for those murdered in the first of Mr. N'Komo's anti-aircraft triumphs. There has been little if any coverage in the United States media of this memorable and newsworthy sermon, which included the following:

"The horror of the crash was bad enough. But that this should have been compounded by murder of the most savage and treacherous sort, leaves us stunned with disbelief and brings revulsion in the minds of anyone deserving the name human. This bestiality, worse than anything in recent history, stinks in the nostrils of heaven.

"But are we deafened with the voice of protest from nations which call themselves civilized? We are not!

"Like men in the story of the Good Samaritan, they 'pass by on the other side.'

"One listens for loud condemnation by Dr. David Owen, himself a medical doctor, trained to extend mercy and help to all in need. One listens and the silence is deafening.

"One listens for loud condemnation by the President of the United States, himself a man from the Bible-Baptist belt, and again the silence is deafening.

"One listens for condemnation by the Pope, by the Chief Rabbi, by the Archbishop of Canterbury, by all who love the name of God. Again the silence is deafening.

"I do not believe in white supremacy. I do not believe in black supremacy either . . . One looks for real leadership: one finds little in the Western world; how much less in Africa."

"Who is to be blamed for this ghastly tragedy? Like Pontius Pilate the world may ask 'What is truth?' What is to be believed? That depends on what your prejudices will allow you to believe, for then no evidence will convince you otherwise.

"Who is to be blamed? First those who fired the guns . . . I am sure that the United Nations and their equivalent the World Council of Churches both bear blame in this.

Each parades a pseudo-morality which, like all half-truths is more dangerous than the lie direct. From the safety and comfort of New York and Geneva, high moral attitudes can be safely struck. For us in the sweat, the blood and the suffering, it is somewhat different . . .

"I have nothing but sadness that our churches have failed so badly to practice what we preach. May God forgive us all, and may He bring all those who died so suddenly and unprepared into the light of His glorious presence. Amen."

At the U.S. Department of State's daily news briefing on Feb. 15th, Inside Religion asked:

"In the State Department's reported deploring of the shooting down of a second unarmed Rhodesian airliner, has there been any consideration of a possible change in the present Carter Administration policy of sanctions against those who are fighting these murderers — but no such sanctions against the murderers?"

Mrs. Clean, a dirty guy

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

Sometimes when one lets her imagination run away with her and writes something she thinks is terribly funny, someone she knows will read that funny writing and say, "Oh my gosh, she's written about me." And then they will call up.

One time I had an idea that I thought was the funniest idea ever, but I needed a "Mrs. Clean" in the story to make it as funny as I thought it was. So I put a Mrs. Clean in. I even said "my neighbor, Mrs. Clean."

One neighbor quit speaking to me for fifteen years, but my other neighbor came out into her backyard and hollered across the fence, "Want a cup of coffee?"

Naturally I did, because she made the best coffee I had ever tasted, and I never had to wipe the spoon before I used it. So I went in her kitchen and she poured me a cup of coffee.

"So you think I'm Mrs. Clean do you?" she said looking at me over the rim of her coffee cup.

"Oh, I think you are the best housekeeper I've ever known," I said. "Then why did you make fun of me and call me 'Mrs. Clean' in your column," she said.

I gulped on my coffee because how could I tell her that I wasn't even thinking about her when I wrote that column. How could I tell her that the 'Mrs. Clean' in that column had jumped right out of my own brain without any form nor any face.

"I tell you I'm not Mrs. Clean," she cried. "You ought to see Mrs. Macey. SHE's Mrs. Clean! But she isn't your neighbor. You must mean me. And I don't like to have you poking fun at me in print."

"Oh my gosh," I said. "Honest, I wasn't thinking of you. I never think of you as Mrs. Clean. I know you're just like the rest of us . . . sometimes clean, sometimes dirty."

That's when she spotted two crumbs on her tablecloth and in a twinkling she had whisked that tablecloth off the table without jarring a single cup, and ran outside with it where she stood and shook it and shook it.

My coffee grew cold while I waited. Finally poking my head out of the window I asked if she wanted me to warm up her coffee.

"I've got to get these crumbs off of here," she said shaking away. "I guess I'm going to have to hang this on the line for awhile, and maybe even wash it again."

On her way back in the house she dusted off the top of the fence with her apron, and chased an ant down the fence pole.

"So you didn't mean me?" she said, sitting down and fanning herself with her duster. "Well, I know it couldn't be me, because Mrs. Clean's never have any fun. All they do is drudge, drudge, drudge, just like Mrs. Macey."

"Oh I agree," I said warming up my coffee. "I know you have fun," and I watched her wiping off a tiny smudge on the cupboard behind her. "What DO you do for just plain fun?" I asked.

"Oh lots of things," she beamed. "But the most fun I ever have is when I clean the piano keys. I love the sound of those tinkly little keys when I press down. Sometimes I play with them for a half hour."

"Well, then," I said as I watched her hurry over to the stove and start polishing its shiny surface. "Anyone can tell that you aren't Mrs. Clean. But you really ought to get rid of that white horse in your garage. Someone might take you for the white tornado."

Budget faces a bumpy road

By THOMAS H. BROWN
State Representative
37th District

Most of us are aware of the old saying that when "the nation catches a cold, Michigan catches pneumonia." The full impact of that hits home most dramatically on the state budget.

While the economy still seems quite stable, there are a number of factors at work that indicate a fundamental instability. First, most economists believe that the economy will go into recession, beginning sometime in the next twelve months. While it would seem that postponing the recession would be helpful, these same economists indicate that the later the recession starts, the more severe it is likely to be.

Second, the impact of continuing gasoline price increases, and any shortages of oil growing out of the current Iranian crisis will have a tremendous impact on two of Michigan's major industries: tourism, and automobile manufacturing.

Third, we are already seeing significant increases in welfare caseloads, particularly in the category for aid to dependent children of the unemployed (ADC-U).

These factors already have combined to create problems for the state budget in the current fiscal year, fiscal 1978-79, which ends September 30. In addition, they will have severe impacts on the budget for the next fiscal year, fiscal 1979-80, which will begin on October 1. The legislature is now at work on reviewing the governor's budget recommendations for fiscal 1980.

Before work can proceed too far on the 1980 budget, however, both the governor and the legislature have to address the difficulties posed for the current year, fiscal 1979. The major problem lies in the area of social services, and has two main causes. First, one result of governmental economy in Washington is that the federal government will not be providing us with $25 million we had budgeted last year. Second, the rapidly rising welfare caseloads will require additional funding over budgeted amounts.

Combining these two items, with others, we face a need for an additional $60 million in funding for the Department of Social Services. Other so-called supplemental appropriations suggested for this year bring the list of potential added spending up to $135 million.

Available state revenues, however, will support only $60 million of added spending. The governor has indicated that he believes $99 million of the supplemental spending is necessary, and that he will recommend cutting $40 million of other existing programs, unless his budget experts and the legislature appropriating committees can hold the supplemental spending to $60 million or less.

The work necessary to resolve this difficult situation is going to require a great deal of legislative attention in the coming weeks.

Appropriations members will have to weight the necessity of additional spending against the offset cuts that will have to be made. The governor's Department of Management and Budget has suggested, for example, that a one percent reduction in total K-12 revenues might save $29 million. One percent cut from higher education might save $8 million. Reducing state revenue sharing payments by $8.8 million is still another option.

Choosing from these options, and other smaller cuts, with all their own negative impacts, will be a difficult but necessary task.

Some observers have suggested that we use the monies being held in the budget stabilization, or "rainy day" fund to cover these additional expenses.

The stabilization fund currently holds over $230 million. It was created in 1977 to operate off a formula that allowed its use only in the most severe recession, in order to encourage the legislature to make minor spending adjustments when necessary.

Most legislative leaders appear to feel that the fund should not be used for this year because it might be needed much more in fiscal 1980 or 1981.

The effects of this current year's fiscal problems show up in the fiscal 1980 budget as well.

The House Fiscal Agency has estimated that maintaining existing required programs will require at least $118 million more than the governor recommended in mid-January. In part, this is due to some questionable underfunding of programs and, in part, it is due to the changing economic situation.

Slightly different economic projects, in fact, also result in the House Fiscal Agency forecasting about $30 million less in revenues than the governor, giving us a potential revenue-expenditure gap of $148 million that will again have to be closed by hard work and tough decisions.

Jed's cabin

By JEANKENNEDY BROWN

Jed clumped contentedly across the kitchen of his mountain cabin. He looked back and saw a trail of muddy footprints. "It's a good thing Martha ain't here to see that mud," he said, and then remembered, "Oh darn, this is Wednesday. Martha'll be coming to clean up. Wish she didn't make it her duty to look after me. She'll be sure to give me another argument about moving to town."

Suddenly conscious of the old felt hat on his head, he morosely turned his back on the footprints and clumped over to his armchair. "Might as well be comfortable while I can," he told himself.

When his wife, Emma, had been alive, he didn't mind being careful about a little mud. She was a dainty thing, but cleaning wasn't the "all" of her existence as it was for Martha. For sisters, they weren't much alike. Martha was a real shrew. Jed appreciated what Martha did for him, but always felt easier when she wasn't around.

Martha didn't understand that when a man reached his late sixties, he liked to take life a little easier—just sit on the porch and watch the chipmunks scoot and chuck around.

She'd probably start in on his old felt hat again. As always. Every time she came she wanted to burn it. Burn it, and it had taken him years to break it in properly. For a skinny woman Martha could sure be mean.

What really worried Jed was the fear that now he would finally give in to her and move down to the city. She had badgered him for an hour on her last visit about how she would let him have the vacant cottage next door to her and Ralph's place for almost nothing, just to remodel and fix up. She told him how much better off he'd be with her right there to look after him.

"Sure," he finally agreed, "as soon as I get enough money to move."

"Is that a promise, Jed?" she demanded.

"Yes. Sure it is," he said. Of course, when he said it, he had no idea he'd win that new car in the church raffle. Now, she'd give him no peace until he moved. He didn't want to move, yet he didn't want to hurt her feelings and break his promise.

"It's just Providence," she had said. "That's what it is. The car's worth several thousand dollars, and that'll be enough for you to fix the place up liveable."

Hank, Jed's constant fishing partner who lived nearby, was totally disgusted with him. "Why didn't you tell that old bat off? You can't live down there where there ain't no fresh air. She'll have you fixin' and paintin' for the rest of your life! You're too old to let her shove you around."

Jed knew Hank was right, but he couldn't tell her off. She was Emma's sister, and he knew she thought she was doing the right thing.

Jed's thoughts were interrupted by the sputtering of Hank's pickup. He went out on the porch to greet his friend. Jed noticed someone else was in the pickup with Hank. It was Martha.

"Lucky thing I ran into Hank down at St. Catherine's," Martha said. "I talked to them and you can take the money instead of the car, so I sent Ralph on down to the lumberyard to get in your order. Isn't it great?"

Hank rolled his eyes in disgust as he waited for Jed to answer.

"Martha," Jed admonished, "you shouldn't have sent Ralph to do that. I don't even have the money yet."

"No, but you will. We're going right back down there as soon as you get on some clean clothes."

"But Martha . . ."

"Don't argue with me. I know what's best for you."

Jed knew the argument was futile. He obediently took the clean clothes she handed him and headed for the door. On the way in he dropped his old hat on the chair, and in another moment, his dirty blue jeans and shirt flew out the front door.

Hank appeared at the side window.

"Jed," he whispered angrily, "why didn't you tell her you weren't moving?"

"I'll figure out something."

"No you won't, Hank argued. "If you don't tell her now, she's got you hog-tied."

Jed zipped up the clean blue jeans without saying a word. Hank was probably right, he thought, as an unusual odor interrupted his concentration.

"Hank, what's that smell?"

"I dunno. I guess she's burnin' some trash."

Jed looked out the front window. Martha was stuffing something into a small burning pile. In a sudden burst of anger, Jed realized what she was burning. It was his old felt hat and the clothes he had just taken off.

"Why that old buzzard! She can't do that to me. She can't just come in here and take over my life. I'll tell her where to . . ." Jed said, as he headed for the door.

Then, he stopped short as a thought struck him. He turned back, and with a funny little smile on his face, he picked up the clean shirt and slowly pulled it on. Hank, disgruntled, walked away from the window.

Martha was yelling, "Jed! Jed! Aren't you ready yet? We need to get going if we're gonna cash in that ticket."

Jed knew Hank would like this. "Just about Martha," he answered.

"Be sure to bring that ticket, Jed. There's no payoff without it."

"Sure," Jed said, as he walked out on the porch. "Why don't you get it for me? It's in the pocket of those dirty jeans I just put out for you to wash."

Here's how UniBank/Cash Management works:

If you have both checking and savings accounts at various financial institutions with a total average balance of $2,000—or if you have an average balance of $2,000 in a single account—it makes good sense to shift your money to a Cash Management Account at National Bank of Detroit.

Here are two reasons why.

First, as long as you average a $2,000 balance in your savings account, the plan has no service charges. Notice that the $2,000 is an average balance. Not a minimum balance.

That means the balance in your account could drop well below $2,000 during some parts of the month, provided you make it up with a higher balance during other parts of the month.

Second, the funds in your savings account earn the highest bank interest allowed by law. When funds are needed in your checking account to cover checks, only the exact amount is transferred—not increments of $50 as is the case with some banks.

This allows you to keep a zero balance in your checking account at all times while earning a maximum 5% annual interest compounded continuously on funds in your savings account. That's an effective annual yield of 5.20%.

So, if your objective is to keep all of your funds earning maximum interest all the time they're not actually needed to pay bills and cover checks, stop in at any nearby National Bank of Detroit office. One of our representatives will gladly answer any questions you may have about NBD's UniBank/Cash Management Account.

Salem squeezes title out of Canton

Stretching his point

Canton's Mike Gollnick (white jersey) goes one-on-one with Plymouth Salem's Jim Anderson during Saturday night's confrontation for the Class A District Championship. Gollnick scored a team high 18 points but it wasn't enough as Salem won the title 71-62 and advances to the Regional Livonia Franklin.

Thomann's troops head for Franklin

Plymouth Salem, capitalizing on a couple of key turnovers, broke open a close game with cross-town rivals, Canton, to win the Class A District Basketball Championship, 71-62 Saturday night.

The victory enabled Coach Fred Thomann's troops to advance to the Regional Tournament at Livonia Franklin where they were due to meet Livonia Bentley Tuesday night in the first round.

A Salem victory would place them into Friday's championship round against the winner of the Ypsilanti and North Farmington game. The championship will be decided at 7:30 p.m.

Canton's Craig Bell, a former assistant to Thomann, said he felt the turning point came in the fourth period.

"Salem applied a lot of defensive pressure and scored off of some key turnovers," said Bell, "and that hurt us. Also, losing Rusty Mandle and Butch King to fouls sort of took the sails out of us."

King is the Chiefs' leading scorer, while Mandle leads in assists.

But it was also Canton inability to silence all-stater Rich Hewlett which led to the Chiefs' demise.

Hewlett came through in the clutch - as he has been doing all year long for the Rocks - and scored 26 points. He pumped in 10 from the field and canned six of eight free throws to lead all scorers.

Howard Monk chipped in 14 and Rob Neu added 10 for the champs who also capitalized on 21 of 31 free throws.

King and Mandle split 30 points in their final appearances in prep cage uniforms while Mike Gollnick had a team high of 18 points.

Ineptness at the foul line (the Chiefs made 18 of 30 attempts) also proved costly.

Canton worked its way to a 18-16 first period, but the two-arch rivals walked off the floor at halftime tied up at 33-all. Salem outscored the Western Six Conference champs 15-

It takes 3 OTs in semis

It took three overtimes but Plymouth Canton managed to eliminate a stubborn Westland John Glenn from the playoffs at Plymouth Salem.

The two clashed in the semi-final rounds and, despite a game-high 30 point scoring performance by Glenn's dynamic senior guard, Daran Armstrong, the Westlanders wound up on the short end of a 71-68 decision.

"We knew we were going to be in a very hard game," said Canton's Craig Bell, "and it lived up to our expectations. Glenn is traditionally an excellent club and the victory is good for our program."

Glenn's Gordie Davis, whose team ended the season with an enviable 17-5 won-lost record, said he was proud at the way the kids played all year.

"And I especially pleased with the way we played against Canton," Coach Davis added. "It was the kind of game that you hate to lose but are proud at the way your kids refuse to quit. It was thrilling from the first to the last whistle."

Deadlocked at 61-all with a 1:35 left in regulation time, Glenn managed to stall until the last 28 seconds before Armstrong was fouled driving in for the basket. He missed a one-and-one and Canton got the rebound and called for a time out. Mike Leary was set up and had a chance to end the game at the foul line but he also missed both attempts of a two-shot foul.

In the first overtime both Canton's Butch King and Glenn's Tony Colucci exchanged baskets and Canton then went into a stall. With 16 seconds left King missed a 12-foot jumper, forcing the issue to a second overtime.

Ypsi wins district at Bedford

"I pick them to go all the way."

That's how Romulus coach Rod Hanna feels about Ypsilanti after the Braves destroyed Romulus 96-56 to capture the Class A District basketball championship Friday night at Bedford Temperance.

Hanna, who has seen a lot of tough teams this season including several from Detroit feels that Ypsilanti can match up with anyone.

"They're superb - that's all there is to say," he added.

Ypsilanti shut off Romulus' running game in the second period after taking a slim 21-18 lead in the first period. The Eagles counted only three points for eight minutes and fell behind 42-21 at the intermission.

Romulus was mired in its own mistakes as the Eagles committed 24 turnovers.

Taking no chances of a Romulus uprising, Ypsi came out shooting in the second half and rang up a 30-14 advantage in the third period and it was never in doubt after the quarter.

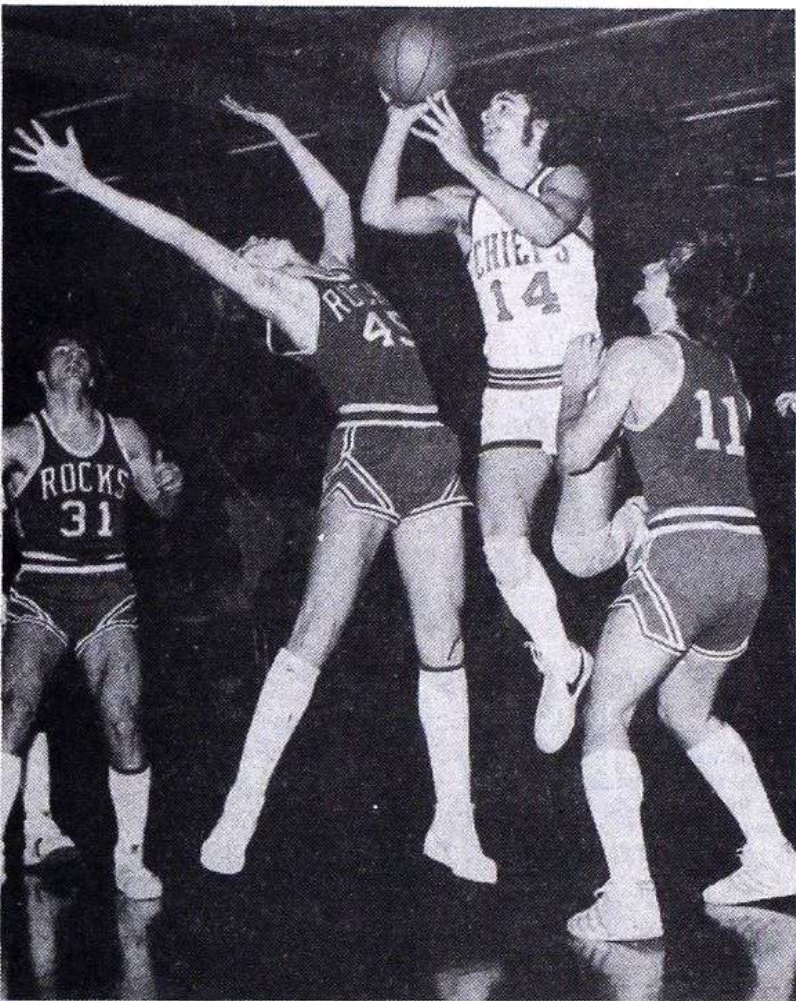

Junior Dave Casey, who chalked up 12 points, was the only Romulus player to hit in two figures, while Kelvin Patterson, former Belleville High, drilled in 26 for the Braves who advance to the Livonia Franklin regionals where they will play North Farmington Wednesday night. (In the first round Salem takes on Livonia Bentley.)

The regional championship will be decided at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Romulus qualified for the district championship game by edging Monroe 67-62 in the semi-finals. Monroe jumped out in front 23-14 after the first period but a balanced scoring attack, led by the Lewis brothers - Darryl and Richard, along with Casey, helped the Eagles tie it up at 39 at halftime.

Romulus had the edge 12-6 in the third period and hung on the rest of the way, protecting a six-point lead in the stretch.

Casey tossed in 20 points to share individual scoring honors with Monroe's 6-7, 220-pound pivotman, (Continued on 2nd Sports)

Up-the-middle

Cutting a path between Salem's Howard Monk (45) and Barry Owens (11), Canton's Rusty Mandle (14) sinks two of his 15 points during Saturday night's district championship game. As in their first encounter during the Christmas Holidays, Canton managed to stay with their arch-rivals until the fourth period before collapsing and losing by nine. Canton finished up the season with a 17-5 record, the best in the school's history.

Belleville is shy one-point for title

The narrowest of margins - one point - separated Coach Sam Vicchy and Belleville's swimmers from a share of the 1979 Suburban 8 Conference championship.

Trailing by some 50 points after the preliminaries, Belleville surged to within one of catching Livonia Bentley which captured the conference team title. The Livonians had 260 points as compared to the Tigers' 259.

Dearborn, the defending five time champ, ended up in third with 225, followed by Allen Park (130), Trenton (95), Plymouth Salem (87), and Edsel Ford (71).

It was the closest flirtation that Belleville has had with the title since the Suburban 8 Conference's inception eight years ago.

Belleville "blue chippers" Chris Renton and Mike Stoelton ended their prep swimming careers with gold medals and league titles in their specialties. Stoelton won the 50-yard freestyle in a fast 22.2 while his teammate, Renton, stashed the 100-yard butterfly event away with a 54.5 performance.

"I'm really proud of the way all of our kids performed," said Vicchy. "I don't think you can say we really lost - when you're down by 50 points and make up all but one, that shows the class of people we have."

Vicchy conceded that "the most talented team there was Bentley, but I really feel that the team with the most class was Belleville."

Next for the Tigers is the Class A state championship which will be held Saturday at Michigan State University in East Lansing. Along with a medley and freestyle relay team, the Tigers will also be represented in the 100 and 50 freestyles by Stoelton and Renton will compete in the 200 freestyle and 100 butterfly. Joe Thomas also qualified in the breaststroke.

Nibert named All-American

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

I remember John Nibert as a cager always going to the boards. And not only to shoot but for rebounds, and following up shots that his teammates took.

Nibert wasn't very big - about 6'2" - or strong when you'd compare him to some of the prep players on the scene back in the middle 70s such as Ron Bostick or Johnny Long at Romulus or Kevin Kaseta at Livonia Franklin or Brian Kaluzny at Westland John Glenn.

great career here at Albion and he's certainly very deserving of first team All-American honors."

Nibert, who has matured into a solid 6-5, 208 pound athlete, was the catalyst for Albion's 20-4 won-lost season and scored 558 points in 23 games to end his collegiate career with 1355, second highest on the all-time Albion scoring list.

But the Wayne Memorial athlete-scholar showed enough on the hardwood that Albion College offered him a "full ride" scholarship so, upon graduation in 1975 from Wayne, John headed for Albion.

Neither he or Albion cage coach Mike Turner has regretted that decision.

If you pick up this week's Basketball Weekly which is due on the stands on March 12, you'll find that Nibert has been named to the first string, All-American, NCAA III Division Team.

"After the way he's played the last two years, there is no question in my mind that John's one of the best Division III players in the country," said Coach Turner. "I am very happy for him. He has a

Cherry Hill holds off pesky Divine Child

Simmons' 26 points lifts Spartans to District title

The college scouts who showed up Saturday afternoon to get a good look at Cherry Hill's Floyd Simmons didn't go away disappointed.

Simmons sank 26 points to lead the Spartans past Dearborn Divine Child 55-51 and to their second straight Class B District Basketball Championship at Dearborn Heights Robichaud.

Leading by as much as 16 points in the second half, Cherry Hill found itself struggling in the closing minutes as a stubborn D.C. refused to quit. The Falcons' 6-3 forward Tim Callahan, getting wide open shots from the corner, capitalized on the situation and before the afternoon was over had a team high 22 points.

The title-winning game was Cherry Hill's ticket to Oakland University where they met Algonac Tuesday night in the first round of the Regional Playoffs. A Spartan victory would give them a shot at the championship. They'd play the winner of the Clawson and De LaSalle game on Friday at 7:30 p.m.

The victory over Divine Child pleased Cherry Hill Coach Dick McNally for a couple of reasons: "First, the obvious, that we won a district title and, secondly, it showed that we can be flexible and play against a run-and-gun team as well as one with a deliberate and controlled style."

"I have confidence that these kids can play against any team," added McNally.

Cherry Hill never trailed against the Dearbornites. After George Johnson scored the first basket, Simmons and Pierre Hudson took over and paced their team to a 15-7 first period lead.

Simmons hit on three consecutive shots early in the second period to stake the Spartans to a 19-8 edge and Aaron Gregory contributed five points in the waning minutes to lift the champs to a 30-17 half.

But Callahan brought the Falcons back. Unchallenged in the corner, the sharpshooting forward began to hit jumpers that cut deeply into the Spartan lead.

Though they trailed 41-29 after three periods, Callahan's contributions forced Cherry Hill to revamp their defenses. It still didn't stop the D.C. cager who lifted the Falcons within four points, 51-47, of catching their rivals with 1:32 left.

Hudson's layup and Johnson's two free throws with three seconds left settled the issue.

Cherry Hill received an excellent performance from guard Greg Thompson who managed to feed Simmons at the right time, while Gregory grabbed 11 rebounds and Johnson played a solid all-around game.

Hudson, with 10 points, was the only other Spartan in double figures.

Bentley shatters Franklin's district dreams

A late fourth period Livonia Franklin surge, led by senior center Chris Baker, fell short against cross-town rival Bentley Friday night as Coach Jim McIntyre and his Patriots dropped a tournament-eliminating 63-57 decision.

The crucial loss cost Franklin the Class A district championship at Livonia Churchill.

"I am very proud of these kids," said McIntyre whose club finished the season with a 13-9 over-all record. "They had come back all year and, for a moment there I thought we were going to pull it out."

Bentley built up a 38-25 halftime lead and lived off of it the rest of the way. After intermission, neither team could find the basket as Franklin outscored their rivals 7-6 on Baker's two baskets and a drive-in layup by Gary DeYonker.

Trailing 44-32 after three periods, Franklin made serious overtures to catch up in the final eight minutes of their season. A pair of free throws and a basket by Paul Berry along with Baker's three-point play gave the Patriots momentum.

With 2:14 left, Chris Bollin and Baker exchanged baskets and Bentley had a 10-point lead (59-49) but back-to-back baskets by Patriots' Jim Wilson and Berry pulled them to within six points (59-56) with 1:18 remaining. After Bentley center Chris Bollin scored,

With 46 seconds left, Baker was awarded a one-and-one and missed and Reich fouled Eric Thorenson who also failed to capitalize on the personal foul.

With 23 seconds to go, Steve Booth hit a layup and that solved the problem. Baker came back and stuffed his final shot of the game.

"They had the boards most of the time," said McIntyre, "and, they usually got the second and third shot and that hurts."

Baker ended his prep cage career with 18 points while DeYonker added 11 and Berry finished with 10.

Booth scored 22 and will lead the Bulldogs up against Ypsilanti Wednesday night at 7:30 in the first round of the regional playoffs at Livonia Franklin. The regional championship will be decided Friday at 7:30 p.m.

He has been named MVP of the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association basketball conference for the past two years, the only player ever in the conference to be given such recognition. He scored 62 points in two games at the Great Lakes Regional III NCAA tournament, leading Albion to a third place finish.

"We are very pleased that Basketball Weekly has chosen him as one of the top five players in the country," Turner added, "and it is a great thrill for Albion College and John personally. We have had a lot of team success and John had a lot of individual success in the last two seasons."

"But one good thing about John Nibert is that he was just as concerned and just as happy about the team's success as he was about any personal success that he's had and that makes him truly an All-American."

Not only is he Albion's first All-American cager, but Nibert also became the first to gain such enviable recognition as a Wayne Memorial alumni.

And to dispell the image that "jocks" don't hit their books and take "mickey mouse courses" when they reach college, Nibert also is in consideration for academic All-American honors.

Joining Nibert on the All-American first team are 6-10 Michael Harper, a junior from North Park, Illinois, Don Marsh (6-0) from Franklin-Marshall, Penn., Cedric Oliver, a 6-4 senior from Hamilton, New York and Scott Rogers, a "deadeye" 5-11 junior guard from Kenyon, Ohio.

Lions are coming to Romulus

Bill Hardy, the athletic director at Romulus High, is going to get that outdoor multi-purpose building even if he has to kill himself.

Or how else can one explain his masochistic preoccupation with basketball? Hardy and his colleagues at the high school have challenged none other than the Detroit Lions - and you know what happens when Christians mess with Lions - to a benefit basketball game.

The purpose of the game is to raise monies for Romulus High's outdoor concession stand which will also include shortage space and toilet facilities so that football fans don't have to raise their hands and say, "may I" everytime.

That benefit game is scheduled for March 21 at 8 p.m. and such noteworthy Lions, such as quarterback Gary Danielson, Dexter Bussey, Luther Bradley and many, many others, will be on hand to sign autographs when they're not tossing the ball into the hoop.

Oh, yes, you can purchase tickets from any member of the varsity club. Tickets are priced at $2.50, but you'll have to forkover 50 cents more at the door the night of the game.

And, to play it safe, I have contacted the Romulus Emergency Rescue Unit to stand by for action that night.

Can't tell what the Christians will do to those Lions with the price of meat what it is.

Canton ousts Glenn

Canton won the toss and chose to stall again as Glenn elected to stay in its zone defense. With less than 30 seconds left, the Rockets came out and picked up their rivals man-to-man and Armstrong snatched the ball away but Glenn turned it over before they got a shot away.

In the third and final overtime, King scored four of his team's eight points to break the deadlock for good.

Canton couldn't stop the sharp-shooting Armstrong in the first period as he pumped in 15 of his 30 points to keep his team in the game. Canton saw its 20-17 lead diminish as Westland outscored their rivals 22-13 to take a 39-33 lead into the locker rooms. But playmaking Dave Visser, Leary and King came alive as the Chiefs tied it up and went ahead 51-49 for three periods.

Glenn had the edge 12-10 in a cat-and-mouse fourth period.

King tossed in 25 points, while Leary finished with 18 and both Visser and Rusty Mandle added 10 for the Chiefs who hit 17 of 25 at the foul line.

Chiefs ousted from playoffs

First half blahs prove fatal to Huron cagers

Having to overcome a horrendous seven of 35 shooting performance from the field proved too much for New Boston Huron cagers who were ousted from the Class B District Playoffs by league rival, Grosse Ile, in the semi-final round of the tournament held at Riverview.

Dale Dewar sank two free throws with less than 15 seconds left in the game to give the Islanders a 58-56 victory over Coach Gene Smith's Chiefs.

It was also the rubber match between the two Huron Conference teams. The Chiefs split with Grosse Ile, winning the first encounter early in the season, but dropping the second one.

"I'm disappointed," said Coach Smith whose club ended the year with a 9-13 record. "How can you be happy with that kind of record? I knew we lacked size, but it seemed we would also contribute to our problems by making key mistakes - a turnover when we needed a crucial basket."

Kermit Burke and Jay Richert each had 13 points for the losers and Randy Pichan chipped in 12.

A little more accuracy at the foul line, where they canned only 10 of 20 attempts - could have salvaged the victory for the Chiefs.

The Islanders hit 16 of 19 free throws.

3 straight titles for Wayne

Zebras are perfect in Great Lakes

Wayne Memorial earned the right to retire the Great Lakes 8 Conference swimming and diving championship trophy.

Coach Jim McPartlin's charges coasted to the league championship Friday night at Wyandotte to retain the league title for the third consecutive year and with the triumph put claim to the trophy for good.

"We have a league rule that stipulates if a team wins the league title three consecutive years," McPartlin said, "it may retire the trophy."

Not only did the Zebras win it again, but they also had a perfect 7-0 record. They have now stretched their dual meet winning streak in the league to 21.

"There has been a lot of pressure on this group," McPartlin said, "and we're really proud at how they have responded. They have a 13-0 record for the season and how do you top that?"

Senior Dave Hills ended his outstanding career at Wayne with a record-shattering performance in the 500-yard freestyle. He touched in at 4:52.6 to provide the Zebras with their only individual first place.

Wayne also won the 400-yard freestyle relay as Hills anchored a 3:25.1 effort. Steve Matheny, John Lewandowski and Tom Brown rounded out the foursome.

Monroe's Mike McCloskey and Jim Trent of Taylor Center were double winners. McCloskey won the 200-yard freestyle (1:47.0), beating Hills to the wire, and also claimed the 100-yard backstroke.

Trent set a record in winning the 200-yard individual medley in 2:04.8, then came back to swim a 49.9 for the 100-yard freestyle.

Cherry Hill tankers salvage T-R title

Though they got off to a slow start at the beginning of the season, defending champ Cherry Hill managed to fit the pieces together in the stretch to retain half of the Tri-River Conference swim title.

First year Coach Wayne Beerbower received sterling individual performances from Ramon Lara, Tracy Hissong, Curt McNamara and his 400-yard freestyle relay team to finish ahead of Southgate, a team that had beaten the Spartans during the dual meet season.

The split with the Sabers enabled Cherry Hill to claim half of the title which they have owned outright or shared for the past five seasons.

"Everyone contributed to this victory," said Beerbower who says he won it with "10 good men". "We don't have depth, but I'm hoping this will change everything."

Lara, a junior, contributed the 200-yard freestyle (1:53.8) and the 500 freestyle (5:07.9), while McNamara won the 100-yard butterfly, coasting to a 59.1 to defeat Riverside's Tim Folk.

Hissong, the lone senior on this year's Spartan club, turned in a dazzling 1:06.1 for the 100-yard breaststroke and chipped in a second place in the 100-yard freestyle.

Wayne gymnast eyes state crown

Kozorosky wins regional gold in floor exercises

Fifteen-year-old gymnast Natalie Kozorosky will head for Spring Harbor on Saturday in quest of a Class A state title. And, if the Wayne Memorial sophomore can duplicate her winning performance in the floor exercise, a dazzling effort at the Regionals she just may realize her ambitions. Miss Kozorosky captured her first gold regional medal by turning in a 9.0 (out of a possible 10) at the regional gymnastics competitions held Saturday at Troy Athens.

The victory was her ticket to this weekend's state finals.

The spunky young gymnast lost a shot at the over-all regional title when she pulled a respectable 7.6 for her efforts in the vault. It wasn't enough, though. She finished sixth on the balance beam with a 8.0 score and was seventh on the bar thanks to a 7.9.

Miss Kozorosky had 32.55 points. North Farmington captured the team championship, finishing with 99.15 points.

Natalie snatched all-around tournament honors at the recently staged conference championships despite a strong over-all performance by defending champ, Taylor Kennedy.

The Wayne soph won the uneven bars with a 8.05, placed first in the vault (7.95) and in floor exercises (8.8) and the beam (7.09) en route to a four-event sweep. Teammate

NATALIE KOZOROSKY

Stacy Krupak picked up a fourth place in floor exercises with a 7.9 effort.

Robichaud rules SAC swim

For an unprecedented fifth successive year, Dearborn Heights Robichaud owns the Suburban Athletic Conference swimming championship.

Coach Jim Hadley's tankers dominated the league in Machiavellian style, claiming nine out of a possible 11 first places en route to an overwhelming triumph.

Robichaud had four double winners - Darin Sharkey, Kevin Gustafson, Doug Kubitz and Glenn Carreathers who also were the winning foursome for the 400-yard freestyle relay.

"There was no way that we were going to lose the title this year," said Hadley, "but I was surprised to see the way we took nine of the 11 events. I'm really happy for the swimmers - these kids have worked hard all year."

Sharkey turned a 2:03.1 in winning the 200-yard freestyle, then posted a 5:41.0 for victory in the 500-yard freestyle. Kubitz stroked a 1:10.3 in the 100-yard backstroke, and had a 2:03.1 for the 200-yard freestyle, while Gustafson was clocked in 2:10.8 for the 200-yard individual medley and posted a 1:03.3 for the 100-yard butterfly.

Carreathers's 56.1 was good enough for a first in the 100-yard freestyle and his 1:09.91 was the best time for the 100-yard breaststroke.

No big surprises in Northwest

Counting on its depth whenever and wherever needed, North Farmington returned to the Northwest Suburban Conference swim throne last week.

There were no big surprises at the annual championships except for the duel between newcomer Redford Union and Livonia Franklin for the runnerup spot. R.U. claimed second in its first appearance in the Northwest after defecting from the Suburban 8.

Franklin, the defending champ, finished a disappointing third, 44 points behind Redord and 153 points behind North. Thurston was fourth (143), followed by Westland John Glenn (142) and Garden City East (131).

Coach Larry Teahan's Patriots started off with a convincing victory in the 200-yard medley relay, but the tide turned for the Livonians when the officials ruled Jeff Lepler of R.U. had beaten Franklin's Tim Weber to the finish of the 50-yard freestyle. Both swimmers were clocked in 23.1.

Weber also lost the 100-yard freestyle by three-tenths of a second to North's Keith Whetter who turned in a 50.1 for the event.

Franklin did get a gold from the sparkling performance of senior Dave Pederson who registered a 1:04.8 in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Glenn was shut out from first places but came close in the diving as senior John Marshall lost his bid for a gold on the last dive to North's Scott Whetter. Westlander Rob Freeborn was favored in the event but a "mental lapse on one of his dives cost him the title," according to Coach Jim Lawrence.

"We just don't know what happened to Rob," related Coach Lawrence. "He went up and it seems he lost his concentration or something and that cost him the title."

Lawrence wound up his rookie year as coach with a 2-3 league and a 6-8 over-all record. He said he was pleased at the progress of his program.

"We have a lot of underclassmen on this team," Coach Lawrence said, "and I'm really looking forward to next year."

Wayne softball registration set

Though one may not be able to detect it by the weather, the softball season is right around the corner.

The Wayne Parks and Recreation Department will hold an organizational softball meeting for its women's leagues at 7 p.m., Thursday, March 29 at the Wayne Community Center, Howe and Annapolis Rds.

Team representatives are urged to attend and players must reside in the city in order to be eligible to compete in the summer league.

Wayne is also seeking volunteers to coach girls' softball teams. Coaches are needed for the mini (8-10), midi (11-13) and maxi (14-18) league teams.

Questions should be directed to Deb Block, league director, at 721-7400.

Pie for St. Patrick's Day

St. Patrick's Day is coming up (it's Saturday!), so get out your best Belleek china and prepare for a party — in greens! For dessert, you won't be able to find anything more delicious than this Chocolate Pistachio Pie, served with a wonderful semi-sweet chocolate sauce — a kind of dessert to remember with pleasure and one you'll make often. Use other kinds and colors of ice cream for different occasions.

With your precious Belleek china a green tablecloth would be lovely, and there must be green carnations for the centerpiece. Make most of the meal "in the greens" if you like, choosing pea soup for a starter. Serve this in small cups with toasted croutons. To accompany the meat course (corned beef and cabbage, of course), there are any number of green vegetables from which to choose — perhaps fresh asparagus with a cheese sauce. Toss diced avocado and bits of pimiento for color contrast with your green salad and serve parsley buttered Irish potatoes, too. For the perfect finish, this Chocolate Pistachio Pie.

If you haven't time to make a pie, then make simpler dessert like Leprechaun Mint Freeze. It's similar to a rich tortoni but has been given a touch of green from the Emerald Isles.

Chocolate Pistachio Pie

1 1/4 cups graham cracker crumbs
One-third cup finely chopped unblanched almonds
1/4 cup sugar
One-third cup butter, melted
1 quart pistachio ice cream
Chocolate sundae sauce
2 egg whites
1/4 cup sugar

Combine graham cracker crumbs, almonds and 1/4 cup sugar. Stir in butter; mix thoroughly. Firmly press over bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 8 minutes. Cool.

Fill crumb crust with ice cream. Freeze until ice cream is firm. Prepare Chocolate Sundae Sauce.

Beat egg whites until foamy throughout. Add 1/4 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Continue beating until meringue will form stiff shiny peaks. Then beat 5 minutes longer. Spread over pie. Bake at 400 degrees for 3 to 5 minutes or until meringue is lightly browned. (Meringue will be soft.) Serve at once with chocolate sauce.

NOTE: For deeper meringue, use 4 egg whites and 1/2 cup sugar.

Chocolate Sundae Sauce

4 squares semi-sweet chocolate
6 tablespoons water
1/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter

Place chocolate and water over low heat. Stir until chocolate is melted and sauce is smooth. Add sugar and stir until dissolved. Boil gently 4 minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add butter and stir until blended. Serve hot. Makes 3-4 cup sauce.

Leprechaun Mint Freeze

1 cup (1/2 pint) heavy cream
One-third cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 teaspoon peppermint extract
5 drops green food coloring
2 squares semi-sweet chocolate, coarsely grated

Whip cream just until it will form soft peaks. Add sugar, vanilla, peppermint extract and food coloring. Fold in grated chocolate. Spoon into 4-ounce paper cups. Freeze until firm, about 3 hours. Makes about 5 servings.

Stabnau listed in 'Who's Who's' in our colleges

Among those selected for inclusion in the 1979 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" is Charles T. Stabnau of Belleville.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Stabnau of 12054 Belleville Road and the grandson of Mrs. Catherine Krebs of Belleville, Stabnau is a senior at Palmer College of Chiropractic in Davenport, Iowa.

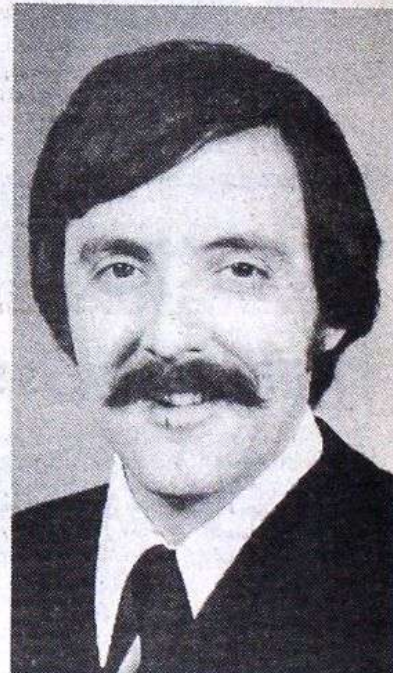

An affiliate of Delta Sigma Chi fraternity, he serves on the board of directors and has been treasurer since January, 1978. As a member of the organization he earned two certificates of merit in 1978 and was chosen Outstanding Undergraduate in March, 1978.

An active participant in campus programs, Stabnau is class representative to the Palmer College Civic Committee, is a member of Palmer Christian Fellowship and the International Chiropractic Association, has served on the Palmer Judiciary Committee and is on the staff of the Palmer College Chiropractic Campus Guide.

As part of the Palmer Clinic staff he is head intern of the X-ray department and has worked in the physical examination center.

He will receive his Doctor of Chiropractic degree next September.

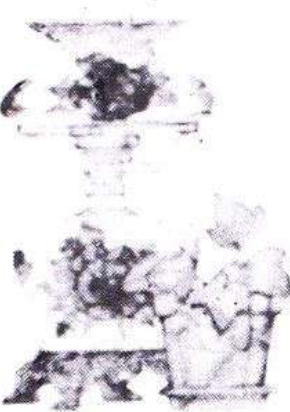

Students are selected for "Who's Who" by campus nominating committees who base their findings on academic achievements, service to the community, leadership in extra-curricular activities and future potential.

What is it about us human beings that makes us so curious and eager to see "other lands, other states, other tourist attractions" but so apathetic to the many points of interest right in our own backyard?

So many people after a move to Florida, Arizona or wherever return to Michigan and THEN take in such sites as Greenfield Village, the Detroit Institute of Arts, the Detroit Zoo, Cranbrook, etc., etc. It seems that distance (the farther, the more intriguing) is the main criteria for sightseeing.

What we need to do is convince ourselves to take minute vacations and mini-trips to surrounding areas and gear some of our spare hours for "doing the tourist bit" within a range of, say 50 miles.

What brought this subject to mind was a visit to Detroit last week. My two co-eds, home on spring break, were delighted when I suggested a mid-day repast at "Alette's Bakery" in the Big City. In my letters to Kalamazoo they'd learned of my affinity for the tiny, off-beat spot in the shadow of the Ambassador Bridge and were eager to check it out.

And (despite P.W.'s recent panning in the city daily) we agreed that its charm lies in its low-keyed style and that the cuisine is well worth waiting for.

But this was not meant to be a restaurant review, so on with it, Smith, (as Bob Ameen would say.)

As we lunched, I kept admiring the beautiful plump pussywillows atop the bakery showcase and said, "I bet she got those at Eastern Market." When the girls asked where that was I realized they'd probably never even seen the place. (As a youngster I was fortunate to first see it "front and center" — at 5 a.m. — with my gardener uncle.)

So — decided we'd take a little drive out Gratiot and look the place over. The market itself was not in operation but still there were all those colorfully muraled wholesale houses (meats, vegetables, fruits, oils, nuts, cheeses, etc.) to take in. I even managed to find several other eateries (tucked away here and there) where we'd dined over the years; places the girls had heard of but never seen.

Greektown — have you two ever seen Greektown? In Tarpon Springs, Fla., yes, but not here, they said. Unfortunately we weren't able to see the area on foot but after a couple swings down Monroe and its counterparts you could almost feel the tempo of another culture. Even the streets were narrower past the Old Parthenon, Hellas and Grecian Gardens restaurants and all the little ethnic shops and markets.

Then, too, there was beautiful old St. Mary's — its architectural grandeur guarded by a demure ironwork fence. Old St. Joseph's and Mariner's Church also popped up on our itinerary and brought to mind that Detroit has more churches and diversity in building styles than any city in Europe.

Heading toward the river and the Renaissance Center on this unusually clear and sunny March day, I remarked that it would be a perfect time to see Detroit from atop the Detroit Plaza and then decided "Why not!" And I actually knew just where to turn and where to park. Up to Feb. 26, I'd not been to the Ren Cen ONCE but, suddenly, I was finding myself there for the third time in 10 days!

Ziping up the outside of a hotel building for 71 stories, let me tell you, is quite a "thrill" and especially when Number Two daughter says, "Remember the elevator in the 'Towering Inferno'?" (And that was one movie we HAD seen... gulp.)

Minutes later — seated in an elegant, slowly revolving lounge — we found ourselves with a magnificent panoramic view of the Detroit River with its ice floes taking on a slimmer look — Windsor in miniature — Belle Isle sandwiched in between two countries — the shrimp proportions of the Ponch and other buildings in comparison to the gigantic Plaza.

I think the underlying motive for our impromptu tour was the sudden realization that we're moving away from the whirlwind of the metropolitan area — that the girls will be going their separate ways before long and with possible gas rationing on the horizon — why wait! Why NOT today?

And the girls loved it!

Thanks to Hazel Bigham (she's manager of Wyandotte Savings Bank on Haggerty Road) our staff at the E-R (and Leona at the Chamber, too) had a delicious addition to our noontime lunches last Thursday. Having stopped in the week before, Hazel asked for the Mexican Wedding Cake recipe we'd run awhile back. And, not only did she kitchen test it herself, but brought in huge pieces to share with us. It was super, Hazel!

Thank-you's, too, are in order for several very thoughtful people who took time to pen notes or send cards regarding "potpourri" items and other Suburban Living stories... to D. C. and S. B. and M. D.... and also to I. L. and E. L. who called in some nice comments. It's always a pleasant "lift" when those things happen.

You're not a superstitious person you say. But — every so often you find yourself knocking wood? Want to know where that old gesture stems from?

It goes all the way back to the Druids of ancient England who believed that trees were inhabited by gods. When asking a favor, Druid priests would touch the bark of the tree. If the "tree god in residence" was in a favor-granting mood, it was thought that he'd return the Druid's knock. It's still a common way of trying to make your wishes come true.

But — if wooden things are lucky for some, it may seem strange to you that others won't walk under wooden ladders. This superstition comes from the early mystics who saw the triangle as a symbol of the Trinity, and hence, of eternity. Anyone who barges through the triangle under a ladder is therefore tempting the fates who may retaliate by upsetting a bucket of paint on him!

Adding to our on-going tributes to the Berlins, Bachs, Beethovens and Bacharachs in our musical world (readers' favorite songs) are two musically inclined members of the community — one a newcomer from Grand Rapids and the other a college gal.

Mrs. Lorne Mitchell of Van Buren Township called to say she'd worked her way through college ("quite a few years ago") by singing at weddings, banquets, funerals, conventions, etc. while a student at Adrian College. She has so MANY favorites, she told us, that she could just name DOZENS but finally narrowed them down to the following ("which are not necessarily all vocals either"): "Camelot"... "Clair de Lune"... "Indian Love Call"... "Slaughter on 10th Avenue"... "From This Moment On"... "I Love You Truly"... music from "The Nut Cracker Suite"... "How Great Thou Art" and "The Entertainer".

Our own daughter, Sue, stopped in at the office and handed me her list quite unexpectedly. Sue, who spends a great deal of her spare time at the piano (when she's home), likes to dig into the old family sheet music so is familiar with tunes from "way back". Topping her list are: "You are the Sunshine of My Life"... "Mr. Lucky"... "Tara's Theme"... "God Bless America"... "Christ the Lord is Risen Today"... "Dancin' in the Moonlight"... "Dona Nobis"... "Sisters" (from the film "White Christmas")... "Singin' in the Rain"... "Sonatina - Op. 20, No. 1" by Kuhlau and "I'll Be Home for Christmas."

THE BOTTOM LINE: The husband who doesn't tell his wife everything probably reasons that what she doesn't know won't hurt him.

BPW sets rummage sale date, plans for area, state confabs

The Young Career Woman Program which began in 1964 is one of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's (BPW's) most important projects for recognizing women achievers and expanding club membership. Women between the ages of 21 and 30 are eligible to participate in the program.

The Young Careerist Committee, comprised of Leona Farr, chairman; The Rev. Susan De Foe, Marie Roberts and Midge Artley, provided a touch of spring with pussywillows and daffodils decorating the tables for the March 5 meeting at Faith United Methodist Church of Denton. Mandatory criteria was not reached by the candidates for club or district level, so Belleville will not be sponsoring a Young Careerist this year.

The Individual Development

Program held weekly at Belleville High School is progressing well. As a woman moves up the career ladder, she must develop leadership skills and self-confidence. The IDP is a course that not only serves those two needs but also orients women to BPW history and prepares them for BPW leadership roles.

Members of the Belleville group will be giving their last speeches at the April regular meeting when an award for the most improved speaker and the traveling Niki will be given.

Several members have made reservations for the District XV meeting to be held March 21 at the Royal Ascot Supper Club, Dearborn, Lincoln Park and Romulus clubs will be hostesses.

The Humanitarian Committee made plans for its March 16 visit to the Sunnyview Convalescent Home.

Saturday, April 21, has been chosen as the date for the annual BPW Spring Rummage Sale, earlier this year due to the state convention at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn May 4-6.

Grenay-Flavell to wed in Flint

St. Michael Church in Flint is being reserved for the autumn wedding of Barbara S. Grenay of Flint and Frederick J. Flavell of Belleville.

Travelers say 'bye' to Florida, Arizona

By Mrs. Joseph Spring 699-4021

Mrs. Winifred Gault of Roland Street recently returned home after having spent the past two months with relatives in the southern states. She spent the month of January with her son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. R.H. Bowick and family at Easley, S.C., and then went on to Florida to spend February with her sister, Mrs. Dorothy Theisen at Miami.

Mrs. Lester Ellward of Madelon Street returned home Feb. 27 after having spent two weeks in Florida visiting former Belleville residents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Drysdale at Clearwater, and other friends at Largo, Tampa, Anna Maria Island and St. Petersburg.

Other Madelon Street residents who returned home Sunday, March 4, are Mayor and Mrs. Justin Emerson, who spent the past month in Florida at Belle Air Beach on the Gulf.

While there they enjoyed seeing their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Groeschner and family from Norwalk, Conn., who were visiting with Robert's parents, the Earl Groeschners, at Gulf Port.

Among the many places visited were Busch Gardens, St. Petersburg and Clearwater where Mrs. Robert Drysdale entertained a group of retired teachers who were spending the winter months in Florida.

Mrs. Louis (Betty) Strauss of Timberlane Drive returned home on Saturday, March 3, from Niagara Falls, Ont., where she had been called by the death of her brother, Frederick B. Johnson, who passed away suddenly on Tuesday, Feb. 27, following a massive heart attack at the age of 66 years.

Howard Rose of Stoneham, Mass. was a guest for several days this past week at the home of his sister, Mrs. Samuel H. Robbe.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stevens of East Huron River Drive spent several days last week at Morenci with the latter's mother, Mrs. Chester Shoup, who had undergone an eye operation.

After having spent the month of February at Apache Junction in Arizona, Mrs. Mae Fielder of South Street and Mrs. Cora Bradshaw of Bedell Street returned home on Friday, March 2. While there they visited former Belleville residents, Mrs. Fordyce Riggs and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Galleard and family at Tempe, relatives of Mrs. Bradshaw; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tucholski at Chandler; and attended services at Trinity Baptist Church at Mesa where The Rev. David Falconer, son of the senior David Falconers of Belleville, is the minister.

They also enjoyed tours to the Grand Canyon, Tucson, Las Vegas, Nev. and Nogales in Old Mexico.

Services were held at the Stevens Funeral Home in Milan Wednesday, March 7, for Walter Greashaber, husband of the former Hazel Schaal, who passed away at Beyer Hospital, Ypsilanti, on Sunday, March 4, after an illness of several weeks.

Mrs. Edgar Quinley of Sumpter Road spent several days last week with her father, Walter Gambrell at Corbin, Ky.

Mrs. Virginia Taylor of Westland and Mrs. Dorothy Kellas of Margery Street enjoyed dinner together before attending the Wayne Chapter 1979 Pitchpipe Parade. A Dream Vacation in Barbershop Style, "The Great Escape," was given by the Wonderland Chorus at Our Lady of Mercy High School in Farmington on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Graham and family of Biggs Street enjoyed a short vacation last week in Florida where they visited Disney World among other interesting places. Enroute home they stopped in Atlanta, Ga., for a short visit with Mrs. Graham's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clayton and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wilson of Elwell Road and their daughter, Janice Whitehead of Dearborn, were last Tuesday guests of the Wilson's son, Dennis and family at Caro.

ABWA sets meeting

For the month of March only the Huron Valley Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association (ABWA) will combine the annual Spring Enrollment Event with the regular monthly business meeting.

The evening will get underway at 6:30 p.m. March 15 at the Grainery Restaurant in Ypsilanti. Part of the special program will be a skit performed by the members.

All business women (women who work outside the home) are urged to attend and learn more about ABWA.

For further information call Willene Taylor at 482-0658 or June Smallwood at 481-0992.

Career Info Day set at Washtenaw CC

* Washtenaw Community College will sponsor a Career Information Day at the College for the public and nearly 50 area companies on March 15.

Open to the public as well as to all WCC students, graduates and alumni, the all-day sessions will provide a forum for employers to discuss job possibilities and career opportunities with interested members of the community, explains Robert I. McCoy, coordinator of the Career Placement Center for the College.

The events of the day are scheduled between 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. in the second floor lounge of the Student Center Building of the College's Main Campus at 4800 East Huron River Drive. There is no charge to participants.

Questions regarding the Career Information Day should be directed to WCC staff at (313) 973-3480.

"NATION'S BEST ORGANIST" FEATURED IN POP CONCERT

Johnny Kemm, internationally famous organist, will appear in a special program of organ music at 7:30, Monday, March 19. Ranging from semi-classics to show tunes to pop, the program will be held at Wayne Memorial High School Auditorium, on Glenwood between Venoy and Wayne Road.

One of America's best and most popular organist, Kemm has received many standing ovations, acclamations, awards and honors. Kemm recently won recognition as the nation's most popular male organist by the ORGANIST MAGAZINE in their first national poll.

Johnny tours extensively for Lowrey Organs at the rate of approximately one million miles every three years. In addition to playing over 200 concerts per year, Johnny has also found time to record six popular organ albums which are currently available.

The Kemm performance promises to provide a stimulating musical experience for organ enthusiasts as well as an exciting treat for the uninitiated. His professional artistry takes full advantage of today's miraculous technology in the field of electronic organs.

Tickets for this musical treat are available without charge from Doug Brown Music, 941-8484, local sponsors of the presentation.

Flower show blooms

Spring makes its entry in classic splendor at Cobo Hall Saturday, when the Builders Home, Furniture and Flower Show bursts upon winter-weary Detroiters. A full one-third larger than in prior years and with more sponsored gardens than ever before, the traditional show will open at 1 p.m. on St. Patrick's Day, which will be suitably recognized in song and symbol at the opening ceremony.

President James Raisin, president of the sponsoring Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan, will share honors with civic dignitaries in cutting a garland of green blossoms to open the 61st version of the event, long recognized as the biggest attraction at Cobo Hall in any year.

Showgoers will be greeted by a spectacular windmill, brought over from Holland, Mich., appropriately centering masses of tulips as an introduction to the formal presentation of the Allied Florists Association and the Florists' Transworld Delivery Association.

Beyond will be seven acres of exhibits on the new, the novel and the needed, plus gardens that will have to be seen to be believed.

"Flowers, flowers, flowers is the best way to describe our gardens this year," said James C. Scott, the show's landscape architect for many years.

In all, there will be 12 sponsored gardens compared to a maximum of seven in prior years.

Other garden sponsors include The Detroit News, Grinnell's, who will present the first showing of a $30,000 grand piano in an unusual cactus garden; Standard Federal Savings; First Federal Savings; Eastman Kodak, with a solarium and hot-tub garden; Manufacturers National Bank, with a first in a rose garden, G.M.C. Truck and Coach;

Chrysler Corp. with Mason Chrysler-Plymouth Inc.; National Bank of Detroit, which will feature the 20 Idea Homes and the House of Nails for the $20,000 estimating contest; Church and Church and Allied Florists-FTDA.

The Detroit Free Press, which last year sponsored the spectacular 60-foot scale model of the White House by John Zweifel, this year will have an equally spectacular showboat exhibit opulent with fine detailing and the excitement of moving people in activities typical of 1890s showboat goers.

Other exhibits will touch on virtually every aspect of life and living today—even health care, in Blue Cross-Blue Shield's first show participation. For those who are planning new homes, at least 12 different building companies will be represented along with developers of suburban and resort communities.

Art for the home will be very big, for a preliminary count showed seven different exhibits, two of which will have artists at work painting. Entertainment exhibits will cover home music systems, special TV equipment, organs and pianos. Solar energy will be spotlighted by such exhibitors as Detroit Edison Co., and new home services will be featured by Michigan Bell Telephone Co. Modernization, too, will be very big.

Many exhibitors will have active how to demonstrations, an approach stressed in Church's Gaslight Village, where a village square will be a focal point for many activities. Action also will be evident at a centrally-located stage where special events are being scheduled for throughout the nine days.

Shows hours will be from 1 to 11 p.m. weekdays and Saturdays. On both Sundays, the doors will open at 10 a.m., and this Sunday, March 18, will remain open until 11 p.m. On the last Sunday, closing will be at 9 p.m. after a special two-hour sale of plantings and flowers.

Ice show features Dorothy Hamill

"America's darling", Dorothy Hamill, has come a long way from the 1976 Winter Olympics. Her fresh, wholesome good looks and skating talent that made her a standout in competition also has earned her numerous television commercial contracts and TV specials, along with a starring role in the all new Ice Capades, which open at Olympia Stadium in Detroit this week.

Headlining this impressive cast of Ice Capades' skating stars, Hamill has found that she prefers professional skating to amateur skating.

"I'm not bound anymore by the need to please a panel of judges looking for extremely precise and rigid requirements. Now I'm free to express more with my skating and do things I wouldn't dare when practicing for the Olympics," she noted. "Audiences seem to enjoy my new, more ambitious routines as much as I do performing them."

"The public has been wonderful. I can sense that they're behind me—they love it when I do my trademark, the 'Hamill Camel', but they also are receptive to new routines such as I do in the show."

A perfectionist whose daily schedule includes practicing her ice routine for seven hours, Hamill burst into the American sports scene with her Olympic gold medal victory in ice skating at the Innsbruck Winter Olympics.

The 22-year-old Hamill, who started skating at the age of 8, has found her life since she turned professional to be more arduous, what with her many specials, product promotions, and possible entry into films. But ice skating is still her first love.

"I love every minute. I enjoy being with Ice Capades and have met some wonderful people. Most of all, I'm doing what I want to do, and what I do best—skating. I can't imagine ever being dissatisfied with such a career," she said.

Dorothy and the rest of the outstanding Ice Capades cast will be at the Olympia Stadium through March 19 with performances at 7:30 p.m., weeknights at 8 p.m. Friday, at 12 noon, 4 and 8 p.m. Saturday and at 1:30 and 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

Tickets are $7., $6 and $4.50 on sale at the Olympia Stadium Box Office, Olympia Travel in Birmingham, all J.L. Hudson's and the Windsor Arena. There is a special $2 discount for children (14-years-old and under) and senior citizens for all weeknight performances, both Saturday matinees and all $4.50 seats.

Annual Shrine Circus comes to town

The opening matinee of the 71st annual Shrine Circus at the State Fair Coliseum Friday will be the first of 38 day and evening performances scheduled through April 1.

Under sponsorship of Moslem Temple, the 2-1/2 hour show will feature 45 top circus acts from around the world presented in 25 separate displays using three rings and two stages.

Among the headline performers will be grandchildren of the late Karl Wallenda carrying on the family tradition of high wire derring; Jeanette Rix leading 10 giant Polar, Syrian, Siberian and Canadian Black bears through an array of feats; Jorge Barreda handling a snarling cage full of black-maned lions, and Geronimo, an Indian daredevil making a 60-foot dive of death into an air-filled Apache War Drum.

Others include the World Wheelers whose basketball wizardry is performed from speeding unicycles; Les Dollies, a talented troupe coming direct from France to soar high above the crowd in cycling feats and aerial acrobatics; Moore's Mess of Mutts and Beeswax, an almost-human mule starring in slapstick comedy.

Other animals range from trained baboons to performing seals with camels, elephants, llamas and many others coming in between. Dozens of aerialists, jugglers, trick riders, acrobats and other performers will help round out the show aided by Detroit's own famous troupe of Shrine Clowns.

"It is planned so there will be constant thrills, excitement and laughter in the air, on the ground or both from the opening parade to the closing spectacular," said Tom Draper, circus chairman. "Rather than have a set show that goes intact from city to city, we are fortunate in being able to select the very best acts in putting together a completely new show for Detroit area audiences. We think the scope and variety of this year's circus marks it as the best ever offered, and one that will appeal to every age group." Proceeds from the annual circus go to support Moslem Temple activities which are primarily directed toward the care of crippled and burned children from southeast Michigan in Shriner hospitals and burn centers.

Advance tickets for the Shrine Circus are on sale from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. at the State Fairgrounds and during normal business hours at Hudson's, Sears, Wards, and the Bank of the Commonwealth.

Performances are scheduled at 1:30 and 7:30 p.m. daily with special early-bird performances at 10 a.m. on each of the three Saturdays and on the closing Sunday, April 1. Ticket charges for the Monday through Friday matinee performances and Monday through Thursday evening performances are scaled from $5 to $3. Friday evening and other weekend prices range from $6 to $4.

Art Institute shows 'wearing blanket'

The ultimate "Wearing blanket" of colonial Mexico will be featured in "The Saltillo Sarape" at the Detroit Institute of Arts Sunday through July 1.

The display in the museum's new Textile Galleries will show 30 examples of the intense visual impact achieved in this native American spinning, dyeing and weaving of the 17th through mid-19th centuries.

In finished sizes from 74 to 101 inches long and 42 to 62 inches wide, the Saltillo sarape was a costly item and famous in its own time for beauty of design, color and utility. It was perfectly suited to life on horseback as all-weather cloak, bedroll and saddle trapping.

Sarapes were produced by individuals in weaving centers scattered throughout northern Mexico. Because Saltillo was the most famous of these towns, its name was applied to any finely-woven sarape of that time and region.

With cotton or linen warp and woolen weft, Saltillo sarapes were vibrant with rich color from natural dyes like cochineal, yielding reds from purple to orange tones, a clear blue violet from indigo, and various yellow, green and purple hues.

Subtle color changes in border design suggest a twisting, spiraling "frame" which encloses the field, woven in another pattern to give the illusion of depth above which the order and large central design seem to float. Occasionally the sarape had a neck slit, permitting it to be worn as a poncho.

The majority of sarapes were woven on small frame looms in two separate strips and seamed together. Weavers required extraordinary skill to duplicate the intricate pattern so two panels appeared a unified whole when matched and joined.

In order to duplicate a Saltillo sarape today, it is estimated a master weaver would labor 10 hours a day for eight consecutive months.

These sarapes had a lively history of being sold or traded at regional fairs; were used as gambling stakes and descended from generation to generation as inherited property. Their fame spread widely during the Mexican War (1846-1848) as American soldiers passing through Saltillo and other northern Mexico towns purchased sarapes and took them home as souvenirs of their tours of duty.

After about 1860 weaving done by Pueblo and Navajo Indians of the American Southwest began to supplant Mexican textiles. Many of the woven Indian garments, blankets and rugs were influenced by Saltillo prototypes.

The exhibition, which was organized by the Santa Barbara Museum of Art (Calif.), is open to the public without charge during regular museum hours — 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

Nature's artistry displayed

"Art From Nature" is the subject of a family nature program to be presented at the nature center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock on March 25 at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Mary Leisten of Trenton will show how to create many interesting figures and scenes using natural materials such as seeds, cones, dried flowers, and bark. Youth leaders and teachers will find this program particularly useful.

The program is free, however, vehicle entry permits are required. For additional information contact the nature center at Oakwoods Metropark at 782-1255 (Flat Rock).

PUBLIC NOTICE

Opportunity for Hearing

All interested persons are hereby advised that the Wayne County and Washtenaw County Road Commissions are proposing to reconstruct the Rawsonville Road bridge over the Huron River. A new four lane bridge with 10' wide sidewalks on each side is proposed. Through traffic will be maintained during the construction period.

Information concerning the project, including preliminary plans and an evaluation of their social, economic, and environmental aspects, is available for review at the offices of the Wayne County Road Commission at 415 Clifford Street, Detroit, Michigan 48226.

This project is proposed to receive Federal aid under the Urban System Program and under provision of Federal Law any person who would be affected by the proposed improvement may request, in writing, that a Formal Public Hearing be held concerning the social, economic, and environmental effects of this project. Such a request should be mailed to Mr. Robert A. Larson, Director of Transportation at the above address. This request must be received on or before March 21, 1979.

TAX SHELTER
DO YOU HAVE A "TAX LOOPHOLE?"
You may not think of home ownership as a "tax loophole" but it is one of the best tax shelters around.
A home is a sound investment for most families even with modest means. When you own your home, you get income tax breaks by including real estate taxes and interest payments in itemized deductions.
Plus... real estate values are expected to increase in the years ahead, as they have in the past. When you sell your house, the increase in value is a Capital gain which generally is taxed at 50 percent of the rate for ordinary income. Taxes can be postponed by reinvesting the proceeds in another home that costs as much as is realized from the sale of the old house.
